Constructing School Success The Consequences Of Untracking Low Achieving Students:

Constructing School Success Hugh Mehan, 1996-05-31 How can we bolster the academic success of low achieving students and provide a more egalitarian classroom setting This book describes the process of untracking an educational reform effort that has prepared students from low income linguistic and ethnic minority backgrounds for college Untracking offers all students the same academically demanding curriculum while varying the amount of institutional support they receive Helpful institutional scaffolds teach the hidden curriculum of the school allowing students to develop an academic identity and build bridges between high school and college There have been many plans and attempts to reform schools but few detailed investigations of such efforts This book is a highly readable account of a successful school reform effort It provides systematic research results concerning the educational and social consequences of untracking previously low achieving students *Constructing School Success... ED398298... United States Department Of Education , Educating Everybody's Children Robert W. Cole W. Cole, 2008-06-15 Designed to promote reflection discussion and action among the entire learning community Educating Everybody's Children encapsulates what research has revealed about successfully addressing the needs of students from economically ethnically culturally and linguistically diverse groups and identifies a wide range of effective principles and instructional strategies Although good teaching works well with all students educators must develop an extensive repertoire of instructional tools to meet the varying needs of students from diverse backgrounds Those tools and the knowledge base behind them are the foundation of this expanded and revised second edition of Educating Everybody's Children Each strategy discussed in the book includes classroom examples and a list of the research studies that support it The most important thing we have learned as a result of the education reform movement is that student achievement stands or falls on the motivation and skills of teachers We must ensure that all teachers are capable of delivering a standards based curriculum that describes what students should know and be able to do and that these standards are delivered by means of a rich and engaging pedagogy of plenty By these two acts we can ensure that all schools will be ready and able to educate everybody's children

Why Afterschool Matters Ingrid A. Nelson, 2016-12-08 Increasingly educational researchers and policy makers are finding that extracurricular programs make a major difference in the lives of disadvantaged youth helping to reduce the infamous academic attainment gap between white students and their black and Latino peers Yet studies of these programs typically focus on how they improve the average academic performance of their participants paying little attention to individual variation Why Afterschool Matters takes a different approach closely following ten Mexican American students who attended the same extracurricular program in California then chronicling its long term effects on their lives from eighth grade to early adulthood Discovering that participation in the program was life changing for some students yet had only a minimal impact on others sociologist Ingrid A Nelson investigates the factors behind these very different outcomes Her research reveals that while afterschool initiatives are important they are only one component in a complex network of school family community and peer interactions that influence the educational achievement of disadvantaged students Through its detailed case studies of individual students this book brings to life the challenges marginalized youth en route to college face when navigating the intersections of various home school and community spheres Why Afterschool Matters may focus on a single program but its findings have major implications for education policy nationwide
