the very values that a European identity is intended to protect

Routledge Handbook of American Foreign Policy Steven W. Hook, Christopher M. Jones, 2012-04-23 The Routledge Handbook of American Foreign Policy brings together leading experts in the field to examine current trends in the way scholars study the history and theories of American conduct in the world analysis of state and non state actors and their tools in conducting policy and the dynamics of a variety of pressing transnational challenges facing the United States

Before Colonization Charles R. Butcher, Ryan D. Griffiths, 2025-07-08 Prior to European colonization the world was thickly populated with hundreds of independent states and vibrant regional state systems Yet these states are typically excluded from traditional international relations scholarship which has mostly focused on the European experience This book provides a groundbreaking comparative analysis of non Western states and state systems in the nineteenth century Using an original data set on independent states during this period Charles R Butcher and Ryan D Griffiths answer fundamental questions such as how many states there were when they arose and when they died documenting the large number of states that were extinguished as a consequence of European colonialism They explore the structure of nineteenth century state systems in East Asia South Asia maritime Southeast Asia and West Africa examining the effects of war trade and interaction capacity Through these case studies Butcher and Griffiths provide novel perspectives on longstanding debates over state centralization and the choice between indirect and direct forms of rule Shedding new light on the dynamics of non Western interstate relations during the nineteenth century Before Colonization reveals striking similarities between state systems across diverse historical settings

Cyberspaces and Global Affairs Sean S. Costigan, Jake Perry, 2016-05-13 From the Facebook revolutions in the Arab world to the use of social networking in the aftermath of disasters in Japan and Haiti to the spread of mobile telephony throughout the developing world all of these developments are part of how information and communication technologies are altering global affairs With the rise of the social web and applications like Facebook YouTube and Twitter scholars and practitioners of international affairs are adapting to this new information space across a wide scale of issue areas In conflict resolution dialogues and communication are taking the form of open social networks while in the legal realm where cyberspace is largely lawless space states are stepping up policing efforts to combat online criminality and hackers are finding new ways around increasingly sophisticated censorship Militaries are moving to deeply incorporate information technologies into their doctrines and protesters are developing innovative uses of technology to keep one step ahead of the authorities The essays and topical cases in this book explore such issues as networks and networked thinking information ownership censorship neutrality cyberwars humanitarian needs terrorism privacy and rebellion giving a comprehensive overview of the core issues in the field complemented by real world examples

China in the UN Security Council Decision-making on Iraq Suzanne Xiao Yang, 2013 With the rupture of the UN Security Council in March 2003 over the US spearheaded intervention in Iraq the attempts made to subject the use of force to the rule of law had failed Widespread Europe US disagreement of the role of the

UNSC has hindered more effective decisions for China and its European and American counterparts in the Security Council
Iraq China and the UN Security Council examines the role of China's policy behaviour in relation to the Iraq intervention in order to develop a better understanding of this fast rising power within the UN It looks at key questions such as What consequences may arise if China's actions are based on a set of values and national interests far removed from those of the major Western powers Could China's attitude disrupt the traditional working and normative practice of the United Nations The book will be of interest to scholars and students of international relations and Chinese Politics

Building Regions

Luk Van Langenhove, 2016-04-08 Regions How they emerge and how they are dramatically changing the appearance of the present world of states and its related forms of governance from local to global levels is analysed in this monograph But what are regions Regions can be small or huge They can be part of a single state be composed out of different states or stretched out across borders They can be important recognized economic social or cultural entities or they can be largely ignored by the people who live on a region's territory They can be well defined with clear cut boundaries as is the case in so called constitutional regions or they can be fuzzy as for instance in cross border regions In sum they are not a natural kind and defining regions is not a simple task Luk Van Langenhove advances the concept of region building as an alternative to the construction of regions with three issues of region building being explored Why are regions built in a world of states How do region building processes take place How are regions transforming the present world order Crossing disciplinary boundaries this book is an exercise in theorizing regions and brings together under one conceptual framework different processes and concepts such as regional integration devolution federalism and separatism and refines the social constructionist view on regions

Towards a Global Polity Richard Higgott, Morten Ougaard, 2002-06-27 The role of law networks and civil society are examined and key theoretical and meta theoretical questions on how to analyse and theorise the global polity what drives it forward and whether it can be democratised are discussed
