The Cancel Culture Panic Adrian Daub, 2024-09-24

Fear of cancel culture has gripped the world and it turns out to be an old fear in a new get up. In this incisive new work, Adrian Daub analyzes the global spread of cancel culture discourse as a moral panic, showing that though its object is fuzzy, talk of cancel culture in global media has become a preoccupation of an embattled liberalism. There are plenty of conservative voices who gin up worries about cancel culture to advance their agendas. But more remarkable perhaps is that it is centrist, even left-leaning media that have taken up the rallying cry and really defined the outlines of what cancel culture is supposed to be. Media in Western Europe, South America, Russia, and Australia have devoted as much, in some cases more attention to this supposedly American phenomenon than most US outlets. From French crusades against le wokisme via British fables of the loony left to a German obsession with campus anecdotes to a global revolt against gender studies, countries the world over have developed culture war narratives in conflict with the US and above all its universities, narratives that they themselves borrowed from the US. Who exactly is afraid of cancel culture? To trace how various global publics have been so quickly convinced that cancel culture exists and that it poses an existential problem, Daub compares the cancel culture panic to moral panics past, investigating the powerful hold that the idea of being cancelled has on readers around the world. A book for anyone wondering how institutions of higher learning in the US have become objects of immense interest and political lightning rods, not just for audiences and voters in the US but worldwide.

The Role of the Media in Criminal Justice Policy Natalia Antolak-Saper, 2022-09-09

This book provides a socio-legal examination of the media's influence on the development and implementation of criminal justice policy. This impact is often assumed. And especially in the wake of high-profile crimes, the press is routinely observed calling for sentences to be harsher and for governments to be tougher on crime. But how do we know that there is a connection? To answer this question, the book draws on a case study of the media reporting of the rape and murder of Jill Meagher in Melbourne, Australia, as well as other well-known cases including those of James Bulger, Sarah Payne, Stephen Lawrence, and Michael Brown, among others. Deploying a socio-legal framework to examine how the media's often powerful and emotive narratives play a crucial role in the development and implementation of law, the book provides a deep and critical reflection on its influence. The book concludes with a number of suggestions for media reform, both to moderate the media's influence and to incorporate a broader range of viewpoints. This multi-disciplinary book will appeal to scholars and students in socio-legal studies, criminology, and criminal law, as well as those working in relevant areas in sociology and media studies.
