Subcommittee on Science, Technology, and Space,1978 Consumers' Cooperation in the United States, 1936 Florence Evelyn Parker,1939 Status Through Consumption Steven D. Silver,2002-03-31 Consumption takes place in settings or environments which have both direct and indirect effects on its dynamic path Direct effects of environments on activities in consuming can occur through constraints that environments impose Environment can also have indirect effects on consumption through enduring modification of internalized constructs which enter heuristics for decisions on activities The importance of environments to consumption is increased by the definitional dependence of status on the judgements of others This study examines microprocessing in consumer activities for status as it interacts with structure in the environments of these activities The importance of environments in status activities provides the basis for a separate but related inquiry into observed differences in the form they take across societies. Conjecture on the consequences of differences in the structure of environments for consumption that typify a society is studied in the narrative statements by members of comparison societies and in the content of print advertising in these societies. Evolutionary processes which could establish observed differences in structure across societies are also considered in both their systematic and random components. I review models of random drift and stochastic resonance as candidate forms for generating observed structure in environments. Directions for the subsequent study of status through consumption are discussed. Congress. House, From Consumer Experience to Affective Loyalty: Challenges and Prospects in the Psychology of Consumer Behavior 3.0 María Pilar Martínez-Ruiz, Mónica

Gómez-Suárez, Ana Isabel Jiménez-Zarco, Alicia Izquierdo-Yusta, 2018-02-19 This research topic for Frontiers in Psychology highlights some of the more relevant changes that have conditioned consumer behavior in recent years among these the paradigm shift in marketing is worth emphasizing. Today the market and the companies are implementing Marketing 4.0. This new marketing approach modifies both the business rules and the channels by changing the way to dialogue, interact and relation with consumers. The present Research Topic brings together 30 studies by 76 authors who analyzed the relevance of consumer behavior changes under this new paradigm using different theoretical and methodological frameworks. These different papers mainly constituting original research examine a variety of sub topics including online and mobile environments, value co creation, internal marketing strategies and diverse industries and product markets. Given this broad selection of papers we encourage readers to draw their own conclusions about the complex phenomena of consumer behavior. Our hope is that these different perspectives will cover various gaps in the field and prompt discussion among the audience of Frontiers in Psychology.
