Directory of Governmental Consumer Services and Agencies United States Price Administration Office, 1942 Guide to Federal Consumer Services U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs, 1976 Consumer Services of Government Agencies Mrs. Iris (Calderhead) Walker, 1938 Consumer Services and Economic Development Colin C. Williams, 1997

Consumer Services and Economic Development evaluates the role of consumer services as motors for local economic development in contemporary advanced economies. The contributions that specific consumer service industries are making to local economic development are analysed. Tourism, sports, universities, retailing and the cultural industries are each examined in turn. Following this, the roles that the consumer services sector are playing in economic regeneration are investigated in a number of different contexts: a global city, several contrasting urban areas and a rural locality. In each case, whether consumer services have taken a lead or supportive role in local economic development is surveyed and their effectiveness in promoting economic regeneration is evaluated. This book dispels the common myth that consumer services are residual activities dependent upon other economic sectors for their vitality and viability. Providing a comprehensive overview and evaluation of the contributions of the consumer services sector to economic development, this book reveals the need for a fundamental reconceptualization of both the function of services in particular and economic development theory and practice more generally.

Sustainable Consumer Services Minna Halme, 2012. The goal for consumer oriented business should be to make a profit and to do it without costing the Earth. Yet exactly how to satisfy the needs and wants of consumers without contributing to environmental degradation is proving to be the essential but elusive goal for businesses in the 21st century. The leading solution is to substitute material consumption with the consumption of services that offer consumers convenience and value but eliminate much of the inefficiency and waste associated with our throw away society. Sustainable consumer services for households: services that are delivered to consumers at the premises such as home delivery of organic food, appliance leasing, mobile laundry services, internet marketing of home services or car pool schemes provide a key part of the answer of how to reduce material consumption and waste while still turning a profit. Yet until now there has been little information to guide the development of such business models and practices and to develop ways to make service based consumption more attractive to consumers than object ownership based models. This book, equally a practical business handbook and business course text, provides the missing link in sustainable household service competitiveness by examining the issues, looking at business models, providing dozens of real life best practice examples and presenting data from the first large scale consumer survey that explains consumer behaviour and what they want from home service provision. The book is an essential resource for businesses and public or nonprofit organizations and housing organizations entering the growing consumer services market. It provides a wealth of business know how on what works and what doesn't, how to avoid potential pitfalls and how to provide consumer services at the household level that are profitable, environmentally sustainable and that
