Morphology of Wood Pulp Fiber from Softwoods and Influence on Paper Strength Richard A. Horn,1974 To achieve full utilization of each harvested tree interest centers on use of all of the tree components The objective of the study is to determine the influence of the morphological characteristics of pulp fiber from 12 western U S softwood species representative of a wide range of fiber The effect of the morphology of the wood pulp fiber as distinguished from that of the wood fiber is emphasized because differences in performance of fiber based products are traced to the pulp fiber Interrelationships of fiber morphology and pulp sheet properties are discussed The results indicate that it is not possible to fully characterize the performance of a pulp by a single morphological characteristic and that the morphological characteristics significantly influence strength properties of sheets
