Technospaces Sally Munt, 2001-06-20 Science and technology have had a profound effect on the way humans perceive space and time In this book an international team of authors explore themes of depth and surface of real and conceptual space and of human machine interaction The collection is organized around the concept of Technospace the temporal realm where technology meets human practice In exploring this intersection the contributors initiate debate on a number of important conceptual questions Is there a clear distinction between the real spaces of the body or the city and the conceptual space of virtual reality How are real and metaphorical spaces of electronic cultures quantified and regulated Is there an ethics of technospace Historically the reception of new technologies has been invested with romantic idealism on the one hand and panic on the other The authors argue that in order for utopian dreams to be tempered by ethical humanistic needs we have an urgent need to reveal reflect upon and evaluate technospace and our relationship to it

Smith, 2009-06-03 Whether people want to play games and download music engage in social networking and professional collaboration or view pornography and incite terror the Internet provides myriad opportunities for people who share common interests to find each other The contributors to this book argue that these self selected online groups are best understood as tribes with many of the same ramifications both positive and negative that tribalism has in the non cyber world In Electronic Tribes the authors of sixteen competitively selected essays provide an up to the minute look at the social uses and occasional abuses of online communication in the new media era They explore many current Internet subcultures including MySpace com craftster org massively multiplayer online role playing games MMORPGs such as World of Warcraft music downloading white supremacist and other counterculture groups and Nigerian e mail scams Their research raises compelling questions and some remarkable answers about the real life social consequences of participating in electronic tribes Collectively the contributors to this book capture a profound shift in the way people connect as communities formed by geographical proximity are giving way to communities both online and offline formed around ideas

Cyberidentities At War Birgit Bräuchler, 2013 Conflicting parties worldwide increasingly use the Internet in a strategic way and struggles carried out on a local level achieve a new dimension This new kind of medialization results in a conflict s expansion into global cyberspace Based on ethnographic research on the online activities of Christian and Muslim actors in the Moluccan conflict 1999 2003 this study investigates processes of identity construction community building and evolving conflict dynamics on the Internet In contributing to conflict and Internet research this study paves the way for a new cyberanthropology A newly added epilogue outlines the directions in which the situation in the Moluccas has continued and discusses the advances and developments of theoretical and methodological concerns presented in the 2005 German edition

Non-humans in Social Science Karolína Pauknerová,Marco Stella,Petr Gibas,2014-12-01 The book explores the issue of non humans and their role and position within contemporary social sciences Inspired by current trends of bridging the dichotomy of nature and culture the authors use the non human as a prism that offers a different perspective of the world society culture and last but not least being s To start paying attention to non humans has the potential to hybridize social sciences and in turn enrich them as well as to offer social scientists novel perspectives and tools to approach social phenomena Such an attitude might in turn lead to a reassessment of understanding of the relationship between the world and being and of the categories of being and subject Hence the potential of non humans to stimulate an ontological shift within social sciences The view of the human and non human as oppositional categories is a remnant of essentially modernist thinking This book represents a response in terms of an attempt to think about humans and non humans outside of the binary division The authors thus want to contribute to the hybridization of social sciences and throughout the book they deal with ontological epistemological and thematical shifts stemming from the hybridization If the non human does not exist as a negation the boundary between the two becomes unclear and overlapping It is with this hybridization the blurring of the boundaries that we are able to come closer to those who inhabit the world non humans and humans alike The Trouble with Culture F. Allan Hanson,2012-02-01 2007 CHOICE Outstanding Academic Title In this highly original book anthropologist F Allan Hanson reveals an entirely unanticipated but vital link between two of the most widely discussed features of contemporary American society the computer revolution and the culture wars Hanson argues that the culture wars stem from a divergence in the evolutionary paths of society and culture Societies have evolved significantly over the last few millennia from small bands of farmers or hunter gatherers into huge internally diverse nation states while cultures the closed systems of meanings and symbols that kept small face to face societies together have failed to keep pace If cultures became more open Hanson contends then the maladaptive rupture between society and culture would be healed and the clashes that currently beset us would be greatly diminished Interweaving lucid analysis with concrete case studies of common law education and other areas of contemporary life Hanson demonstrates how the widespread use of computers is in fact encouraging more originality and open mindedness with the potential to ease polarization and calm the culture wars Girl Wide Web Sharon R.

Mazzarella,2005 Given the rapidly growing presence of girls online serious academic inquiry into the relationship between girls and the Internet is imperative Girl Wide Web is an innovative collection of cutting edge research exploring a wide sweep of issues related to the ways adolescent girls interact with the Internet Employing a range of methodologies and theoretical perspectives primarily within cultural studies the authors examine a variety of topics from instant messaging and web diaries to online fan communities and Internet advertising that targets young girls Taken together these essays provide a rich portrait of the complex relationship among girls the Internet and the negotiation of identity Mobile City Jordan H.

Kraemer,2025-01-15 In Mobile City Jordan H Kraemer charts the rise of social media and an emerging knowledge class in early 2000s Berlin Many young Germans and EU Ausländer foreigners from other EU countries attracted to Berlin's vibrant post unification counterculture moved to the city just as they began using social media like Facebook and Twitter Social media and Berlin alike became hip sites for urban middle class aspirations but as Kraemer accounts social media users became embroiled in contestations over class mobility and identity as urban planners and developers remade Berlin into a neoliberal creative city The rise of this creative city involved scale making projects that fused imaginaries of digital technologies with the expansive impulses of late capital a vision of world peace and economic cooperation through global interconnection But in Berlin scalar transformations were lived out through ordinary practices that reconfigured daily sociality mobility and urban space Mobile City explores how digital media practices forged emergent scales like the global and supranational yet were equally complicit in potential European disintegration and illiberalism

Localizing the Internet John Postill, 2011-08-01 Internet activism is playing a crucial role in the democratic reform happening across many parts of Southeast Asia Focusing on Subang Jaya a suburb of Kuala Lumpur this study offers an in depth examination of the workings of the Internet at the local level In fact Subang Jaya is regarded as Malaysia's electronic governance laboratory The author explores its field of residential affairs a digitally mediated social field in which residents civil servants politicians online journalists and other social agents struggle over how the locality is to be governed at the dawn of the Information Era Drawing on the field theories of both Pierre Bourdieu and the Manchester School of political anthropology this study challenges the unquestioned predominance of network and community as the two key sociation concepts in contemporary Internet studies The analysis extends field theory in four new directions namely the complex articulations between personal networking and social fields the uneven diffusion and circulation of new field technologies and contents intra and inter field political crises and the emergence of new forms of residential sociality

Postcolonial Politics, The Internet and Everyday Life M.I. Franklin, 2006-05-02 In this ground breaking study M I Franklin explores the form and substance of everyday life online from a critical postcolonial perspective With Internet access and social media uses accelerating in the Global South in depth studies of just how non western communities at home and living abroad actually use the Internet and web based media are still relatively few This book's pioneering use of virtual ethnography and mixed method research in this study of a longstanding media diaspora incorporates online participant observation with offline fieldwork to explore how postcolonial diasporas from the south Pacific have been using the Internet since the early days of the web Through a critical reconsideration of the work of Michel de Certeau in light of postcolonial and feminist theories the book provides insights into the practice of everyday life in a global and digital age by non western participants online and offline Critical of techno and media centric analyses of cyberspatial practices and power hierarchies Franklin argues that a closer look at the content and communicative styles of these contemporary Pacific traversals suggest other Internet futures These are visions of social media that can be more hospitable culturally inclusive and economically equitable than those promulgated by both powerful commercial interests and state actors looking to take charge of the Internet after Web 2.0 The book will be of interest to students of international politics media and communications cultural studies science and technology studies anthropology and sociology interested in how successive waves of new media interact with shifting power relations at the intersection of politics culture and society

Sacred Space for the Missional Church William R. McAlpine, 2011-02-14 Sacred Space for the Missional Church examines the strong link between the theology and mission of the Church and the spaces in which and from which that theology and mission are lived out The author demonstrates that the built environment is not incidental or even subservient to mission Rather it is a key player in the fulfillment and the communication of that mission The book begins with a working definition of the missional church underscoring the connection between God's mission missio Dei and the Church's mission The reader is presented with historical and theological frameworks for sacred space and reminded of the pivotal role of the built environment in the fulfillment of the mission of the Church The design and construction of sacred spaces are shown to be fundamentally a theological exercise and not solely a matter of function pragmatics and fiscal astuteness The author questions the uncritical application of blanket statements such as form must follow function and challenges the conviction that it does not matter where worship occurs only that it occurs The book addresses genuine concerns such as legitimizing the cost of church buildings and concludes with practical suggestions and essential questions that must be considered in posturing the built environment within the missional praxis of the Church

Virtual Communities Felicia Wu Song, 2009 Does contemporary Internet technology strengthen civic engagement and democratic practice The recent surge in online community participation has become a cultural phenomenon enmeshed in ongoing debates about the health of American civil society But observations about online communities often concentrate on ascertaining the true nature of community and democracy typically rehearsing familiar communitarian and liberal perspectives This book seeks to understand the technology on its own terms focusing on how the technological and organizational configurations of online communities frame our contemporary beliefs and assumptions about community and the individual It analyzes key structural features of thirty award winning online community websites to show that while the values of individual autonomy egalitarianism and freedom of speech dominate the discursive content of these communities the practical realities of online life are clearly marked by exclusivity and the demands of commercialization and corporate surveillance Promises of social empowerment are framed within consumer and therapeutic frameworks that undermine their democratic efficacy As a result online communities fail to revolutionize the civic landscape because they create cultures of membership that epitomize the commodification of community and public life altogether

Citizenship, Political Engagement, and Belonging Deborah Reed-Danahay, Caroline B. Brettell, 2008-07-16 Immigration is continuously and rapidly changing the face of Western countries While newcomers are harbingers of change host nations also participate in how new populations are incorporated into their social and political fabric Bringing together a transcontinental group of anthropologists this book provides an in depth look at the current processes of immigration political behavior and citizenship in both the United States and Europe Essays draw on issues of race national identity religion and more while addressing questions including How should citizenship be defined In what ways do immigrants use the political process to achieve group aims And how do adults and youth learn to become active participants in the public sphere Among numerous case studies examples include instances of racialized citizenship in Algerian France Ireland s new citizenship laws in response to asylum seeking mothers the role of Evangelical Christianity in creating a space for the construction of an identity that transcends state borders and the Internet as one of the new public spheres for the expression of citizenship be it local national or global

Lived Islam in South Asia Imtiaz Ahmad, Helmut Reifeld, 2004 Lived Islam in South Asia Adaptation Accommodation and Conflict is an extremely timely and important publication Fourteen interesting papers based on intensive fieldwork in Nepal Sri Lanka Pakistan and India explore a highly controversial subject They touch on the everyday religious lives of the Muslims in these countries The book argues that Islam cannot be understood through the works of theologians alone for whom it is a formal uniform and rigid system of beliefs and practices Popular Islam or Islam as it is practised by millions of Muslims in South Asia has an empirical validity and is a dynamic process of adjustment and accommodation as well as conflict with other religions with which it coexists

Native on the Net Kyra Landzelius, 2004-11 The Internet is increasingly being used by marginalized ethnic groups to create a form of community and unified political voice This book explores the lives and agendas of these web users and the political effects of their online activity
