

THIRD EUROPE 1938

The idea of "Third Europe" arose in the 1930s as a pragmatic response to the ideological polarization of Europe - most notably the creation of the Anti-Comintern Pact. This non-ideological bloc of allied countries would guarantee peace in Central Europe, distancing itself from both the Western Democracies and Nazi aligned Regimes. The alliance was to be built around the Romanian-Hungarian Alliance, where the latter would give up her historical claims on Transylvania in exchange for Romanian support in the partition of Czechoslovakia. Hungary would then regain some of her northern borders, while Poland would reunite with the Polish populace in Zaolzie. To keep Czechoslovakia apart, the Moravian Corridor would be established, separating the new Czech National Republic from Free Slovakia. The project found a surprising amount of support, with Italy and Yugoslavia soon joining this "Third Europe".

The Fall Steven Saxonberg, 2013-10-11 With a foreword by Seymour Lipset Hoover Institution and George Mason University USA The Fall examines one of the twentieth century's great historical puzzles why did the communist led regimes in Eastern Europe collapse so quickly and why was the process of collapse so different from country to country This major study explains why the impetus for change in Poland and Hungary came from the regimes themselves while in Czechoslovakia and East Germany it was mass movements which led to the downfall of the regimes Eastern Europe
