During the Derecho weather event of June 2012 I was blind sided with the diagnosis of breast cancer I had faithfully gotten mammograms every year and had no family history on either side so the shock of the diagnosis shook my equilibrium As an attorney by profession and Type A from birth controlling what little I could control and at least managing what I couldnt control got me through I am also the mother of a child with special needs My son has Aspergers and although brilliant will always need me to help him navigate the neuro typical world I must outlive him My choices reflect that acute realization Although only diagnosed in the right breast and with options other than mastectomy for that one I elected for a double mastectomy When my hair started falling out from chemotherapy I went to the salon and had it all shaved off When I found out that my cancer was estrogen fed I had an elective oophorectomy Removing my ovaries both helps prevent recurrence and ensures that I wont get ovarian cancer What remains after a life changing diagnosis and the grueling path to Survival is a new normal that can be both heart breaking on a daily basis and sweeter than the life you had before The book is my unvarnished truth of the ugly and the blessings of receiving such a diagnosis often indelicate in detail and irreverently funny Through this experience I learned that you can actually feel prayer Its the most profound feeling I have ever experienced Not miring the readers in gloom and doom What Remains is intended to give hope peace and courage to everyone regardless of circumstances The famous quote from Confucius rings true We have two lives and the second begins when we realize we only have one Im living my second life and finding joy and laughter in the most generic experiences Even almost three years later I wake up every morning with breast cancer as my first thought I give thanks to God for each day that no one is promised then get up and get on with my life      Dad you're my superhero A collection of stories and memories Chaitanya Srivastava, An anthology by Chaitanya Srivastava Dad You Are My Superhero Anthology is dedicated exclusively to recognize father s role feeling fatherless on fathers day This assemblage comprises a myriad of inspiring and moving personal narratives and verses dedicated to the architecture of paternal love resilience and knowledge All stories in the anthology ARE able to encapsulate the very idea of fatherly heroism and the narrations of the sweet paternal instructions or insistence are standpoints that reflect heroic actions as well Assembled with much love and affection this book by Chaitanya Srivastava truly celebrates fatherhood as being a genuine superhero and should be a moving and deeply touching read for the fathers of the world and their children where the true value and importance of father figures is explored      Early Times Stephen Harris,2022-07-06 This is an adventuresome humorous story of a father and son that takes place in yesteryear of Florida The story entails fishing tales fish tails hunting and wild unbridled revelry Of course there is a spiced or spiked flavor of a wee dram of spirits to accentuate the frolic and

Recovering Memory

Hedda Friberg, Irene Gilsenan Nordin, Lene Yding Pedersen, 2009-03-26. Various ways of collecting, storing and recovering memories have been the focus of the most recent joint research project carried out by a group of Irish Studies scholars all based in the Nordic countries and members of the Nordic Irish Studies Network (NISN). The result of the project, Recovering Memory: Irish Representations of Past and Present, is a collection of essays which examines the theme of memory in Irish literature and culture against the theoretical background of the philosophical discourse of modernity. Offering a wide range of perspectives, this volume examines a plurality of representations, past and present, of memory both public and private and the intersection between collective memory and individual in modern Ireland. Also explored is the relation between memory and identity, national and private, as well as questions of subjectivity and the construction of the self. Given Ireland's tragic past and its long history of colonisation, it is inevitable that various aspects of memory in terms of nationality, post-colonialism and politics also have bearing on this study. The volume is divided into five sections, each of which examines one broadly defined aspect of memory. The introductory section focuses on memory and history and is followed by sections on memory and autobiography, place, identity and memory in the work of novelist John Banville. Within each section, the individual writers engage in a fruitful dialogue with each other and with the approaches of such theorists as Arendt, Husserl, Merleau-Ponty, Ricoeur and Baudrillard.
