increase consumption of healthy foods: Evidence from a school-based field experiment in Viet Nam Nguyen, Trang,de Brauw, Alan,van den Berg, Marrit,Phuong Ha, Do Thi,2020-06-24 Schools are an attractive entry point to improve children s diets as their eating habits can be shaped during childhood and the information disseminated from school can reach adults through children We implemented a cluster randomized trial in 12 schools in peri urban Viet Nam to assess if two school based interventions increased knowledge of healthy diets among children and their parents as well as children s consumption of healthy foods First children were given lessons about food before school lunch and encouraged to share the lessons with their parents Second children were provided with healthy snacks for five weeks to reinforce messages about healthy eating We found that in the short term the nutrition lessons raised the knowledge index score of the children by 0.35 standard deviation After six months this intervention retained its effectiveness only for the children who also received free access to fruit emphasizing the linkage between knowledge and practice By itself free access to fruit at school increased the children's daily fruit consumption by half a portion but not at the expense of home fruit consumption Access to healthy foods at school can therefore be an effective measure to raise children's healthy consumption Child parent communication was not a reliable channel for knowledge dissemination in our setting Food cognition: The crossroads of psychology, neuroscience and nutrition Carol Coricelli, Luisa Torri, 2023-05-08
