Agf Learning And Work In The Risk:

Learning and Work in the Risk Society K. Evans, M. Behrens, Jens Kaluza, 2000-05-22 Based on a unique comparative analysis of the education and work experiences of those who lived through the political and labour market changes of the transition to post communism the authors argue that far from catching up with the rest of Germany the social polarisations and erosion of the traditional dual system of vocational education and training in Eastern Germany may portend the future for the West The issues raised have considerable resonances with the problems and contradictions which have beset British education and training and labour market policy over the last decade

Construction Safety Management, A Systems Approach Jose D. Pérezgonzález, 2005 The few models on safety management that are available tend to explain a procedure to manage safety rather than a safety management system The research carried out here however models safety management by transforming a common procedural model i.e. the HSE's model 1997 into a functional systems representation The overall goal of the model is to offer clear graphic lines of influence of its different components on organisational safety The model is innovative not in the components that it considers but in the representation of those components which details relative distances between elements and therefore opens doors to model driven hypotheses which account for those distances Therefore hypotheses are more accurate in their predictions This model is firstly explored in the construction sector Results from this exploratory research support the adequacy of the model to understanding safety management and encourage future research of a more confirmatory nature

Proceedings of the 1st International Conference in Safety and Crisis Management in the Construction, Tourism and SME Sectors, Machine Learning Applications for Data Analysis in Healthcare Systems Sudeshna Chakraborty, Jyotsna Singh, Praveen Kumar Shukla, Prasenjit Chatterjee, 2025-11-18 This comprehensive exploration investigates the powerful intersection and the ever changing impact of machine learning techniques on data analysis in healthcare transforming the way we approach medical challenges improve patient outcomes and enhance healthcare systems The healthcare industry generates an enormous amount of data from electronic health records and medical imaging to genomic sequencing and wearable devices However the true value of this data lies not in its sheer volume but in the insights it can provide Machine learning algorithms offer the means to unlock the hidden patterns and knowledge within this data enabling us to make informed decisions identify high risk patients and personalize interventions for better healthcare outcomes This volume emphasizes the practical implementation of machine learning techniques supported by real world case studies and examples
