Agricultural Bioterrorism A Federal Strategy To Meet The Threat:

Agricultural Bioterrorism Henry S. Parker, 2002      Agricultural Bioterrorism Steven A. Wieneke, 2006 The threat of agricultural terrorism in the United States has awakened the nation to the stark reality that its agricultural industry may be in jeopardy. Intentional attacks delivered by land, air, and sea are capable of devastating this nation's agricultural infrastructure, its economy, and ultimately threaten the survival of the citizens and the quality of life we have taken for granted. Preparations taken to identify vulnerabilities, implementation of prevention measures, and actions taken in response to an attack will determine the magnitude of the impact of an agricultural incident. This paper will present the bioterrorism threat the United States agricultural infrastructure faces. It will review the nature and threat of agricultural terrorism against livestock and croplands and demonstrate the degree of vulnerability the United States agricultural industry has against a bioterrorism attack. This paper will identify current plans, policies, initiatives, and capabilities available at the local, state, and federal levels. It will review actions that should be implemented in order to strengthen this nation's ability to prevent, prepare for, respond to, and mitigate long-term consequences that could devastate the nation's economy.

Kuhn, 2019-05-02 This second volume of a two-volume set focuses on specific pathogens and their mechanisms of pathogenesis, as well as diagnostics, therapeutics, and various strategies in the event of biological attacks. Further, the work is of interest to basic science and applied science research scholars and experts working in the area of high consequence or select agent virology.

Rosegrant, Siwa Msangi, Jose Falck-Zepeda, Joanne Gaskell, John Komen, Marc J. Cohen, and Regina Birner,      The Impact of 9/11 on Business and Economics M. The series brings together from a broad spectrum of disciplines the leading thinkers of our time to reflect on one of the most significant events of our time.

Agricultural Bioterrorism Henry S. Parker, 2002 The attacks of September 11, 2001, have made Americans acutely aware of their vulnerability to terrorism. Now the Nation is focused on improving defensive measures and rooting out and destroying the global infrastructure of terrorism. In response to the terrorist offensive, the Bush administration has engineered an international coalition against terrorism, dedicated substantial new resources to prevent or deter this blight, undertaken military action against blatant practitioners of terrorism, and established a new Office of Homeland Security under the leadership of former Pennsylvania governor Tom Ridge to coordinate the Federal response to terrorism. As America prepares defenses against catastrophes barely conceivable only a few months ago, the threat of bioerrorism, in particular, looms larger.

than ever Fears of anthrax smallpox and plague pervade the American consciousness fueled by reports that some of the plane hijackers involved in the World Trade Center and Pentagon attacks had specific interest in crop duster aircraft that could be used to disseminate aerosols of pathogens Because of this the Nation is stepping up its defenses against bioterrorism
