Agricultural research in Southeast Asia: A cross-country analysis of resource allocation, performance, and impact on productivity Stads, Gert-Jan,Nin-Pratt, Alejandro,Omot, Norah,Thi Pham, Nguyen,2020-10-26 Southeast Asia made considerable progress in building and strengthening its agricultural R D capacity during 2000 2017 All of the region s countries reported higher numbers of agricultural researchers improvements in their average qualification levels and higher shares of women participating in agricultural R D In contrast regional agricultural research spending remained stagnant despite considerable growth in agricultural output over time As a result Southeast Asia s agricultural research intensity that is agricultural research spending as a share of agricultural GDP steadily declined from 0.50 percent in 2000 to just 0.33 percent in 2017. Although the extent of underinvestment in agricultural research differs across countries, all Southeast Asian countries invested below the levels deemed attainable based on the analysis summarized in this report. The region will need to increase its agricultural research investment substantially in order to address future agricultural production challenges more effectively and ensure productivity growth. Southeast Asia's least developed agricultural research systems, Cambodia, Laos, and Myanmar, are characterized by low scientific output and researcher productivity as a direct consequence of severe underfunding and lack of sufficient well-qualified research staff. While Malaysia and Thailand have significantly more developed agricultural research systems, they still report key inefficiencies and resource constraints that require attention. Indonesia, the Philippines, and Vietnam occupy intermediate positions between these two groups of high and low performing agricultural research systems. Growing national economies, higher disposable incomes, and changing consumption patterns will prompt considerable shifts in levels of agricultural production, consumption, imports, and exports across Southeast Asia over the next 20 to 30 years. The resource allocation decisions that governments make today will affect agricultural productivity for decades to come. Governments therefore need to ensure the research they undertake is responsive to future challenges and opportunities and aligned with strategic development and agricultural sector plans. ASTI's projections reveal that prioritizing investment in staple crops will still trigger fastest agricultural productivity growth in Laos. However, Indonesia, Malaysia, and Vietnam could achieve faster growth over the next 30 years by prioritizing investment in research focused on fruit, vegetables, livestock, and aquaculture. In Cambodia, Myanmar, and Thailand, the choice between focusing on staple crops versus high value commodities was less pronounced, but projections did indicate that prioritizing investments in oil crop research would trigger significantly lower growth in agricultural productivity. Livestock Sector Training Needs Assessment Report for Southeast Asia, China and Papua Guinea, Agricultural transformation in Asia. Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2021-06-11.

Over the past few decades, some countries in Asia have been more successful than others in addressing poverty and malnutrition. The key question is what policies, strategies, legislation, and institutional arrangements have led to a transformed agricultural sector effectively contributing to poverty alleviation and addressing malnutrition. The great majority of national policymakers within and outside the Asia Pacific region are keen to understand the causes of agricultural development and transformation in successful countries in Asia. A large number of studies have been conducted, and some of them link specific public policies and interventions to successful agricultural transformation. However, there seems to be a lack of focus on the policy, legislative, and institutional environments that have enabled or impeded agricultural transformation in Asia. National policymakers are likely to benefit significantly from adequate and convincing information on successful and relevant experiences in successful transformation. Countries are interested in what their neighbours and peers have done and why some have achieved impressive results. The main purpose of this study is to take stock of public sector experiences in facilitating and enabling agricultural transformation in selected countries in Asia The study focuses on key public sector interventions in particular policies legislation and institutional innovations because these areas have so far not been adequately researched The Economies of Southeast Asia Teofilo C. Daquila, 2005 This book analyses the growth development and crisis experiences of the Southeast Asian economies in particular Indonesia Malaysia the Philippines Singapore and Thailand also known as ASEAN 5 The proposition is developed that the robust economic performance of the Southeast Asian economies during the past four decades has been attributed to the various factors developments and independent national policies which have been pursued by the individual member countries rather than to any regional economic framework The book covers eleven topics which is suitable for a one semester course on the economics of Southeast Asia Also it has a narrower area coverage as it focuses only on the five economies namely Indonesia Malaysia the Philippines Singapore and Thailand The sectoral treatment of the crisis impact and the analytical treatment of policy responses to the crisis differentiate this book from other publications on the same topic Finally this book provides an analysis of national developments policies and factors which have contributed to the economic transformation of the respective Southeast Asian economies Synthesis report: Agricultural transformation and market integration in the ASEAN region: Responding to food security and inclusiveness concerns

Roy, Devesh, Kamar, Abul, Pradhan, Mamata, Saroj, Sunil, 2025-01-28 The Association of Southeast Asian Nations ASEAN is a regional grouping of Southeast Asian countries formed in 1967 by Indonesia Malaysia the Philippines Singapore and Thailand Brunei Darussalam joined this association in 1984 ASEAN expanded to 10 countries between 1995 and 1999 by extending memberships to Cambodia Lao PDR Myanmar and Viet Nam These 10 Southeast Asian countries entered into the trade agreement to ensure the free flow of goods including agricultural products Agreements related to services and investment were also signed to enhance economic cooperation and to develop an ASEAN Economic Community AEC The implementation of the ASEAN Free Trade Area AFTA in 2003 helped liberalize the intra ASEAN agricultural trade which grew steadily during the period under review Further the dynamics of intra ASEAN trade show that after the food price crisis of 2007 2008 intra ASEAN agricultural trade increased sharply which reflects ASEAN's efforts to create a food security action plan aimed at improving sustainable food trade among ASEAN members Asia, Review of Agriculture in ... and Outlook for ..., 1981 Comprehensive analysis of the disaster risk reduction system for the agricultural sector in Kazakhstan web question 1 what is true of isothermal process a  $\Delta t = 0$  b  $\Delta u = 0$  c  $\Delta q = \Delta w$  d  $p, v$  constants solution in an isothermal process temperature remains constant  $\Delta t = 0$  since internal energy depends on the temperature  $\Delta u = 0$  from first law of thermodynamics  $\Delta u = \Delta q - \Delta w$  since  $\Delta u = 0$   $\Delta q = \Delta w$  also  $p, v$  nrt as  $t$  is constant  $p, v$
