Death and Bereavement around the World John D. Morgan, Pittu Laungani, 2021-03-24. The make up of the contemporary nation state is increasingly multiethnic and statistics show that in many cases no one group is numerically the largest. Interethnic relations are given global visibility by the media while much that happens among different groups depends on context. Editors John D. Morgan, King's College London and Pittu Laungani, South Bank and Manchester Universities, England, have gathered leading international authorities to produce Death and Bereavement Around the World, the first of a five volume presentation and analysis of the ways different peoples experience dying and grief. Effective bereavement care requires a knowledge of an individual's physical, social, educational and spiritual existence since the expressions of grief and the needs that emerge vary widely from one to another and are subject to past experiences, cultural expectations, personal beliefs and relationships. An individual's identity comes from a sense of personal uniqueness, solidarity with group ideals, continuity with the past, present and future and from the culture by which an individual is raised.
