I cannot consider death as any thing but a removing from one room to another.

Consider Death:

Death and Life Arthur C. McGill,2003-09-02 Of course death will happen to all of us someday but until then it s not something to think about or grapple with But we do think about it Arthur C McGill maintains that our preoccupation with health good looks and material success is in fact a retreat from death which we secretly fear is the final lord of our lives Charting the Christian pilgrimage toward a life freed from the dominating power of death McGill uses three scriptural images of Jesus to show us the possibility of walking continually into death being ourselves loving our neighbors and worshiping God
