A Question of Adoption Anne Else,2023-02-27 A Question of Adoption gives a richly detailed immensely readable account of the ideology and practice of closed stranger adoption in New Zealand from pregnancy through to the final adoption order and its aftermath Anne Else s scrupulous moving narrative explores social and moral attitudes towards unmarried mothers unwanted children and childless couples during the 1950s and 1960s She shows how the resulting system took shape how it worked or failed to work and its lifelong effects on everyone involved then sets out how and why change began to occur This new e book edition written with Maria Haenga Collins includes seven ground breaking new chapters providing a comprehensive account of creating and transferring children through the related processes of adoption state care donor conception and surrogacy It details how so many M ori children were and still are cut off from their whānau and whākapapa through adoption and state care both stemming from racist colonial ideology and how the Adoption Act 1955 came to be seen as glaringly at odds with contemporary concepts of children's rights and best interests. It examines New Zealand's complex history of using third parties to create children through reproductive technology and the lengthy unresolved debates over regulation. The final chapter looks at local and global risks now facing human reproduction connection and reproductive justice.

After Adoption Janette Logan, Carole Smith, 2013-01-11 Few children nowadays are placed for adoption with no form of contact planned with birth relatives and it has become common professional practice to advocate direct rather than indirect contact. Practice has outstripped evidence in this respect and not enough is known about how contact arrangements actually work out particularly for older children adopted from state care. Such children have often experienced neglect and sometimes abuse and have frequently been adopted without parental agreement. Based on research with a large number of adoptive parents, children and birth relatives, After Adoption considers the impact of direct post adoption contact on all concerned in such cases. It also discusses the development of adoption policy and law particularly with regard to the legal and social consequences, reviews the research evidence on adopted children's contact with their birth families, explores through interviews participants' feelings about adoption and direct contact, their relationships with each other, what hinders and what helps. After Adoption challenges readers to re-think the relationship between adoption and the possibility of direct post adoption contact and at the same time provides a comprehensive understanding of adoption issues. It is a timely and valuable addition to the literature on adoption making a substantial contribution to policy and practice.

Adoption Great Britain: Parliament: House of Lords: Select Committee on Adoption Legislation, 2013-03-06 The Government's focus on driving up the number of adoptions should not be delivered at the expense of other routes to permanence such as special guardianship or kinship care for children for whom adoption may not be suitable. The Committee is also concerned that there is a significant lack of information about rates of adoption breakdown. The most pressing issue is that of post adoption support. Children adopted from care have a range of needs due to their early life experiences often of abuse or neglect which are not resolved simply by being adopted. There should be a statutory duty on local authorities and other service commissioning bodies to ensure the provision of post adoption support. Cost concerns need to take into account the significant amount of money which local authorities save when a child is adopted from care. The drive to increase adoptions must also not undermine preventative programmes and efforts to keep birth families together. The Committee also recommends a pilot scheme offering support to families who have had children removed from their care. Other recommendations from the Committee include encouraging more local authorities to move towards joint adoption services with neighbouring authorities and adoption agencies ending the current practice of employing Independent Reviewing Officers (IROs) within local authorities and instead employing them externally giving them the independence needed to promote the best interests of children providing a designated teacher with responsibility for the wellbeing for adopted children within every school and improving the training and supervision of social workers
