Politics and Constitutions in Southeast Asia Marco Bunte, Björn

Dressel, 2016-07-15 In recent years the constitutional landscape of Southeast Asia has changed tremendously Against a worldwide background of liberalization globalization and democratization states in the region have begun to alter their constitutions reinforcing human rights provisions and putting in place institutional safeguards such as constitutional courts and human rights commissions On closer examination however the picture is very complex with constitutional developments differing greatly between states This book explores a range of current constitutional developments in the different states of Southeast Asia through a distinct political lens Drawing on comparative and single case studies it considers various constitutional areas including constitution drafting human rights legal safeguards and the continuing role of the military sets constitutional developments in the wider political and historical context of each country and makes comparisons both with Western democracies and with other developing regions The book concludes by assessing overall how far constitutional practices and trajectories are converging towards a liberal Western model or towards a distinctly Southeast Asian model

The Law and Legitimacy of Imposed Constitutions Richard Albert, Xenophon Contiades, Alkmene

Fotiadou, 2018-11-01 Constitutions are often seen as the product of the free will of a people exercising their constituent power This however is not always the case particularly when it comes to imposed constitutions In recent years there has been renewed interest in the idea of imposition in constitutional design but the literature does not yet provide a comprehensive resource to understand the meanings causes and consequences of an imposed constitution This volume examines the theoretical and practical questions emerging from what scholars have described as an imposed constitution A diverse group of contributors interrogates the theory forms and applications of imposed constitutions with the aim of refining our understanding of this variation on constitution making Divided into three parts this book first considers the conceptualization of imposed constitutions suggesting definitions or corrections to the definition of what exactly an imposed constitution is The contributors then go on to explore the various ways in which constitutions are and can be imposed The collection concludes by considering imposed constitutions that are currently in place in a number of polities worldwide problematizing the consequences their imposition has caused Cases are drawn from a broad range of countries with examples at both the national and supranational level This book addresses some of the most important issues discussed in contemporary constitutional law the relationship between constituent and constituted power the source of constitutional legitimacy the challenge of foreign and expert intervention and the role of comparative constitutional studies in constitution making The volume will be a valuable resource for those interested in the phenomenon of imposed constitutionalism as well as anyone interested in the current trends in the study of comparative constitutional law Legal Scholars and Scholarship in the People's Republic of China Nongji Zhang, 2023-11-20 Law is a moving system of rules that changes according to a nation's political and socioeconomic development To understand the law of the People's Republic of China today it is imperative to learn the history and philosophy of the law when it was first shaped This is a comprehensive introduction to Chinese legal scholarship and the prominent scholars who developed it during the initial decades of the PRC when the old Chinese legal system was abolished by the newly established Communist government With responsibilities for full scale recovery and reconstruction while cultivating entirely new disciplines and branches of legal studies the thirty three leading legal scholars featured herein became the creators pioneers and teachers of the new Communist legal system Through their scholarship we can see where the field of Chinese legal studies came from and where it is going Nongji Zhang reveals the stories of the most prominent PRC legal scholars including their backgrounds scholarly contributions and important works This essential tool and resource for the study of Chinese law will be of great use to faculty students scholars librarians and anyone interested in the field

Power by Design Suisheng Zhao, 1995-12-01 First established as a cabinet system in Guangzhou in 1925 the Nationalist Government of China was replaced three years later by a presidential system under a unified Nationalist government in Nanjing The cabinet government was restored in 1931 and existed until the presidential system was again installed by the 1936 constitution Why did presidential and cabinet systems exist alternately during this formative period of the Nationalist government Why was the presidential system finally adopted in 1936 Suisheng Zhao answers these and other questions fundamental to understanding authoritarian regimes in this pioneering study of the design of the Nationalist Government of China from 1925 to 1937 although scholars of comparative politics have shown great interest in the institutional choice between parliamentarianism and presidentialism in democratic countries they have paid little attention to the study of constitutional frameworks in authoritarian settings By offering a clear and original re interpretation of the history of this power struggle between Chiang Kai shek and his rivals over institutional design Zhao challenges the conventional wisdom that has underestimated the importance of formal institutions in non democratic regimes Borrowing ideas from public choice theory Zhao proposes that political actors who design governmental institutions are driven by power maximization strategies just as business firms are driven by wealth maximization strategies Constitution making reflects the underlying distribution of power among authoritarian leaders who attempt to design political institutions that will consolidate their personal power and position Thus Zhao argues if political actors possess more power resources than their rivals and anticipate themselves becoming dominant they will choose the singular leadership of the presidential system If they are in a weaker position and do not anticipate becoming dominant they will prefer the collective leadership of the cabinet form of government Notable for its persuasive integration of political science theory and the historical evidence Power by Design is an insightful re interpretation of Chinese history that will be welcomed by scholars of modern China and those interested in the consequences of the nationalist politics that continue to reverberate in contemporary China as well as by comparative political scientists studying constitution making and institutional design
