After Empire Peter Zarrow, 2012-03-28 From 1885 1924 China underwent a period of acute political struggle and cultural change brought on by a radical change in thought after over 2 000 years of monarchical rule the Chinese people stopped believing in the emperor These forty years saw the collapse of Confucian political orthodoxy and the struggle among competing definitions of modern citizenship and the state What made it possible to suddenly imagine a world without the emperor After Empire traces the formation of the modern Chinese idea of the state through the radical reform programs of the late Qing 1885 1911 the Revolution of 1911 and the first years of the Republic through the final expulsion of the last emperor of the Qing from the Forbidden City in 1924 It contributes to longstanding debates on modern Chinese nationalism by highlighting the evolving ideas of major political thinkers and the views reflected in the general political culture Zarrow uses a wide range of sources to show how statism became a hegemonic discourse that continues to shape China today Essential to this process were the notions of citizenship and sovereignty which were consciously adopted and modified from Western discourses on legal theory and international state practices on the basis of Chinese needs and understandings This text provides fresh interpretations and keen insights into China's pivotal transition from dynasty to republic Journal of Chinese Religions ,2009 Chinesisch in der Fremde Michael Poerner, Locating East Asia in Western Art Music Yayoi Uno Everett, Frederick Lau, 2024-08-06 The traditional musics of China Japan and Korea have been an important source of inspiration for many Western composers Some like Chou Wen chung and John Cage have moved beyond superficial borrowing of Eastern musical elements in earnest attempts to understand non Western principles of composition At the same time many Asian composers often trained in the West or in Western music traditions have been using Asian elements to create works of unique musical synthesis As a result of such cultural interpenetrations the landscape of Western art music has been irreversibly altered Locating East Asia in Western Art Music is a comparative study of Asian influenced Western composers and Western influenced Asian composers and the first sustained exploration of this cross cultural exchange Bringing together work by music theorists musicologists and ethnomusicologists this book explores how musical notions of East and West are constructed and utilized by composers and reevaluates the many ways East Asian composers have contributed to developments in twentieth century music Composers discussed include John Cage Toru Takemitsu Chou Wen chung Toshio Mayuzumi Isang Yun Tan Dun John Zorn and Henry Cowell CONTRIBUTORS Hugh De Ferranti Yayoi U Everett Judith Herd Ellie Hisama Eric Lai Frederic Lau Fredric Lieberman Steven Nuss Nancy Rao and Yu Siuwah

Nation Work Timothy Brook,André Schmid,2000-11-08 As increasing attention is drawn to globalization questions arise about the fate of the nation a political and social unit that for centuries has seemed the common sense way to organize the world In Nation Work Timothy Brook and Andr Schmid draw together eight essays that use historical examples from Asian countries China India Korea and Japan to enrich our understandings of the origin and growth of nations Asia provides fertile ground for this inquiry the volume argues because in Asia the history of the modern nation has been inseparable from global influences in the form of Western imperialism Yet while the impetus for building a modern national identity may have come from the need to fashion a favorable place in a world system dominated by Western nations those engaged in nationalist enterprises found their particular voices more often in relation to tensions within Asia than in relation to more generic tensions between Asia and the West With topics ranging from public health measures in nineteenth century Japan through textual scholarship of Tamil intellectuals the willful division of Korea s history from China s the development of China s cotton industry and the meaning of postnational ism for Chinese artists the essays reveal the fascinating array of sites at which nation work can take place This will be essential reading for historians and social scientists interested in Asia Timothy Brook is Professor of History Stanford University Andr Schmid is Assistant Professor of East Asian Studies University of Toronto

Constructing Modern Asian Citizenship Edward Vickers,Krishna Kumar,2014-12-05 In many non Western contexts modernization has tended to be equated with Westernization and hence with an abandonment of authentic indigenous identities and values This is evident in the recent history of many Asian societies where efforts to modernize spurred on by the spectre of foreign domination have often been accompanied by determined attempts to stamp national variants of modernity with the brand of local authenticity Asian values Chinese characteristics a Japanese cultural essence and so forth Highlighting or exaggerating associations between the more unsettling consequences of modernization and alien influence has thus formed part of a strategy whereby elites in many Asian societies have sought to construct new forms of legitimacy for old patterns of dominance over the masses The apparatus of modern systems of mass education often inherited from colonial rulers has been just one instrument in such campaigns of state legitimation This book presents analyses of a range of contemporary projects of citizenship formation across Asia in order to identify those issues and concerns most central to Asian debates over the construction of modern identities Its main focus is on schooling but also examines other vehicles for citizenship formation such as museums and the internet the role of religion in particular Islam in debates over citizenship and identity in certain Asian societies and the relationship between state centred identity discourses and the experience of increasingly globalized elites With chapters from an international team of contributors this interdisciplinary volume will appeal to students and scholars of Asian culture and society Asian education comparative education and citizenship

The Construction of Racial Identities in China and Japan Frank Dikotter,1997-11-30 Far from being a negligible aspect of contemporary identity racialized senses of belonging have often been the very foundation of national identity in East Asia in the 20th cent This vol shows that the construction of symbolic boundaries between racial categories has undergone many transformations in China and Japan but the attempt to rationalize and rank real and imagined differences between population groups remains widespread In an era of economic globalization and political depolarization racial discrimination has increased in East Asia affecting the human rights of marginalized groups and collective perceptions of the world order These essays address the historical background and contemporary implications of these potentially explosive issues theoretical context The contributors look at how nationalism under the force of multiculturalism or vice versa affects East Asian societies including China Japan Korea Taiwan and Hong Kong differently The key themes are Democracy and equality Confucianism s relationship with nationalism cosmopolitanism and multiculturalism China s use of its political institutions to initiate and sustain nationalism the impact of globalization on nationalism in South Korea Taiwan and Japan the role of democracy in reinvigorating indigenous cultures in Taiwan
