Integrative Production Technology for High-Wage Countries Christian Brecher,2011-12-19 Industrial production in high wage countries like Germany is still at risk Yet there are many counter examples in which producing companies dominate their competitors by not only compensating for their specific disadvantages in terms of factor costs e g wages energy duties and taxes but rather by minimising waste using synchronising integrativity as well as by obtaining superior adaptivity on alternating conditions In order to respond to the issue of economic sustainability of industrial production in high wage countries the leading production engineering and material research scientists of RWTH Aachen University together with renowned companies have established the Cluster of Excellence Integrative Production Technology for High Wage Countries This compendium comprises the cluster s scientific results as well as a selection of business and technology cases in which these results have been successfully implemented into industrial practice in close cooperation with more than 30 companies of the industrial production sector

OHS Electronic Management Systems for Construction Imriyas Kamardeen,2013-01-25 Occupational accidents have a massive personal and social cost as well as a major financial cost The construction industry is one of the most dangerous industries accounting for around 20-30% of all occupational deaths worldwide. The accompanying financial cost is either absorbed directly or passed on in the form of higher insurance costs. In addition, regulatory bodies have started to impose legal accountability on all the parties along the construction supply chain. OHS is hard to implement. Construction projects are complex with a fluid workforce and the regulatory framework is highly elaborate. OHS Electronic Management Systems for Construction presents a theoretical framework which is designed to overcome these difficulties integrating OHS management in construction using knowledge management and web technologies. This framework is explained in a clear step-by-step way as are features such as a systematically developed corporate safety memory and a virtual learning portal to facilitate on-demand safety training. The ultimate aim of this book is to aid the development of an established safety culture at the organisational level and the formation of an industry-wide community of safety practice. This is essential reading for OHS professionals and construction managers attempting to change their industry for the better as well as advanced students and researchers.

Foreign Credits by the United States Government United States. Dept. of the Treasury, Integration of Nature and Technology for Smart Cities Anil Ahuja, 2016-03-17. This book is a resumption of the work Integrated M E Design Building Systems Engineering published by Anil Ahuja in 1997. Together with an international group of authors from the engineering, urban planning and architecture fields, Mr Ahuja discussed new trends and paradigms in the smart buildings and smart city sectors and extended the topic of the previous publication from the building to the entire city. A smart sustainable building is not just about the building itself. There are things happening in the inside of the building and on the outside. A smart building connects the inside with the outside, provides efficiencies on both sides, synchronizes the outside infrastructure with its inside systems and integrates nature and its occupants in its design. A smart building doesn't just provide technology solutions. It is about constant exchange between the inside and the outside of the building, the contribution of the building to the quality of the entire neighborhood and the rest of the city, how the smart building can connect people in a sharing community and how technology can be the key to make it happen.
