

Religion being a belief system cannot be empirically proven and is therefore, an abomination to modernization and the modernization will erode religious practice is called the secularization theory.

According to religious people, membership to a religious group, organization, or cult represents a superior affiliation that connects humanity directly to the divine or the super natural spiritual being. So, being a Muslim, Buddhist, Jewish or Catholics places one in a higher plane than just being a Filipino, Muslim, or Jew. It is the reason why certain religious groups separate or isolate themselves from the mainstream society to create a hidden sanctuary or haven. The place they can freely perform their religious practices and beliefs system without the meddling and control of the nation-states authorities. The Buddhist monasteries are located on the top of the mountain or located away from civilization so that the hermits can devote themselves to prayer and contemplation. The Kibbutzes of Mount Benahur, the Essenes in Israel the Mormons of Utah, or the Dalai Lama in Tibet are among them. These groups also believe that living with non-believers will distract them or even tempt them to abandon their faith and become sinners like everyone else. These religious communities justify their opposition to government authorities on religious grounds.

According to Peter Berger far from being secularized, the contemporary world is becomingly and furiously religious. There are evangelization and denominational activities exploded in all parts of the world. Religions such as: 1) Catholicism, 2) Islam, 3) Judaism, 4) Hinduism, and 5) Buddhism are respectably more active, critical, condemning, and competing of one another. Each religion with their doctrines and practices believe that their religion is the true religion that will lead humanity to heavenly place.

John Johnson

Contemplacon Of Synners:

Contemplacon of Synners Wynkyn de Worde, 1974 Literature and politics in the English Reformation Tom Betteridge, 2017-10-03 This book is a study of the English Reformation as a political and literary event Focusing on an eclectic group of texts unified by their explication of the key elements of the cultural history of the period 1510-1580 the book unravels the political poetic and religious themes of the era Through readings of work by Edmund Spenser William Tyndale Sir Thomas More and John Skelton as well as less celebrated Tudor writers Betteridge surveys pre-Henrician literature as well as Henrician Reformation texts and delineates the literature of the reigns of Edward VI Mary Tudor and Elizabeth I Ultimately the book argues that this literature and the era should not be understood simply on the basis of conflicts between Protestantism and Catholicism but rather that Tudor culture must be seen as fractured between emerging confessional identities and marked by a conflict between those who embraced confessionalism and those who rejected it This important study will be fascinating reading for students and researchers in early modern English literature and history

William Touris OFM, The Contemplacioun of Synnaris Alasdair A. MacDonald, J. Craig McDonald, 2022-05-20 The Contemplacioun of Synnaris by the Observant Franciscan William Touris written c. 1494 and evidently intended for King James IV of Scotland is a significant and much copied work of Older Scots although the earliest surviving witness is the English print by Wynkyn de Worde 1499 The Contemplacioun was the very first work of Older Scots literature to be translated and to be printed The poem's seven sections comprise a course of meditations for Holy Week Richard Fox bishop of Durham commissioned the English print in which the stanzas were preceded by Latin sententiae biblical medieval and ancient The work retained sufficient interest to re-emerge in separate versions in both Scotland 1568 and England 1578 drastically revised for Protestant readers The British Bibliographer Sir Egerton Brydges, 1814 645. Contemplacon of synners. 1499 W. Reinink, 2007 The present volume contains twelve new essays on didactic verse with a broad time sweep ranging from the most ancient literature Sumeria through to the early modern age seventeenth century England Considered collectively the contents illustrate the transmission of this important literary kind from Ancient to Modern times and from east to west from south to north The Romantic age led to the lyric being seen as the dominant poetical mode and today it has become almost axiomatic to view the chief function of poetry as the articulation of the thoughts and emotions of the individual a concomitant assumption is that the essential quality of poetry is the aesthetic However in other cultures and in earlier times things were very different and the didactic was long accorded a secure place as one of several prominent literary modes While it is difficult to give a precise definition of the didactic it may be said to be characteristically concerned with knowledge and wisdom where the latter term inclines toward moral and religious instruction and the former toward information both practical and encyclopaedic The present contributions deal with the functioning of didactic verse in such widely diverse areas as education in school mnemotechnics rhetoric style and composition farming grammar the natural world cultural identity liturgy and worship aetiology philosophy politics intertextuality man as microcosm the training of the soul gender awareness Truly the classroom presided over by Calliope the chief of muses is no arid intellectual forcing house but rather a place where the resources of rhetoric learning and imagination are felicitously combined in the training of the individual mind and the betterment of society in general Christie's Since the War, 1945-1958 Denys Sutton, 1959 The Medieval Mystical Tradition in England Marion Glasscoe, 1987 These papers are the proceedings of the fourth international Exeter Symposium They promote enquiry into and understanding of the medieval mystics and the cultural context to which they belong Here historians literary critics theologians philosophers and bibliographical scholars explore ways in which the contemplative tradition was mediated and perceived in the very early and very late medieval period and ask fundamental questions about the nature of contemporary understanding of this subject CONTRIBUTORS GEORGE R KEISER SUE ELLEN HOLBROOK WILLIAM F POLLARD JAMES HOGG SANDRA MCENTIRE ANNE SAVAGE PETER DINZELBACHER NICHOLAS WATSON PETER MOORE ROBERT K FORMAN Typographical Antiquities Joseph Ames, 1749 Typographia John Johnson, 1824 A Companion to the Early Printed Book in Britain, 1476-1558 Vincent Gillespie, Susan Powell, 2014 First full scale guide to the origins and development of the early printed book and the issues associated with it The history of the book is now recognized as a field of central importance for understanding the cultural changes that swept through Tudor England This companion aims to provide a comprehensive guide to the issues relevant to the early printed book covering the significant cultural social and technological developments from 1476 the introduction of printing to England to 1558 the death of Mary Tudor Divided into thematic sections the printed booktrade the book as artefact patrons purchasers and producers and the cultural capital of print it considers the social historical and cultural context of the rise of print with the problems as well as advantages of the transmission from manuscript to print the printers of the period the significant Latin trade and its effect on the English market paper types bindings and woodcuts and other decorative features which create the packaged book and the main sponsors and consumers of the printed book merchants the lay clientele secular and religious clergy and the two Universities as well as secular colleges and chantries Further topics addressed include humanism women translators and the role of censorship and the continuity of Catholic publishing from that time The book is completed with a chronology and detailed indices Vincent Gillespie is J R R Tolkien Professor of English Literature and Language at the University of Oxford Susan Powell held a Chair in Medieval Texts and Culture at the University of Salford and is currently affiliated to the Universities of London and York Contributors Tamara Atkin Alan Coates Thomas Betteridge Julia Boffey James Clark A S G Edwards Martha W Driver Mary Erler Alexandra Gillespie Vincent Gillespie Andrew Hope Brenda Hosington Susan Powell Pamela Robinson Anne F Sutton Daniel Wakelin James Willoughby Lucy Wooding Typographia Or
