Archaeological Heritage Management in the Modern

World Henry Cleere, 2012-11-12 Representing the latest thinking in this fast moving and often emotive field this book offers a remarkably comprehensive international coverage of the public aspects of archaeology The process of survey and inventory rescue and archaeology conservation and protection have until now been studied largely on the basis of individual countries and their administrative and legislative structures Now by virtue of its broad geographical coverage this volume provides many rights and guidelines not hitherto brought into focus the history and philosophy of archaeological heritage management case studies regional national and specialised and the training and qualification of archaeologists for heritage management This book is essential reading for all students researchers and practitioners concerned with archaeological heritage management public administration and the legal community whose work involves archaeological issues

Can There be a Philosophy of Archaeology? William Harvey Krieger, 2006-01-01 Can There Be a Philosophy of Archaeology provides a historical and philosophical analysis of the rise and fall of the philosophical movement known as logical positivism focusing on the effect of that movement on the budding science of archaeology Significant problems resulted from the grafting of logical positivism onto what became known as processual or new archaeology and as a result of this failure archaeologists distanced themselves from philosophers of science believing that archaeology would be best served by a return to the dirt By means of a thorough analysis of the real reasons for failures of logical empiricism and the new archaeology as well as a series of archaeological case studies Krieger shows the need for the resumption of dialogue and collaboration between the two groups In an age where philosophers of science are just beginning to look beyond the standard examples of scientific practice this book demonstrates that archaeological science can hold its own with other sciences and will be of interest to archaeologists and philosophers of science alike

The American Southwest and Mesoamerica Jonathon E. Ericson, Timothy G. Baugh, 2013-11-11 Regional approaches to the study of prehistoric exchange have generated much new knowledge about intergroup and regional interaction The American Southwest and Mesoamerica Systems of Prehistoric Exchange is the first of two volumes that seek to provide current information regarding regional exchange on a continental basis From a theoretical perspective these volumes provide important data for the comparative analysis of regional systems relative to sociopolitical organization from simple hunter gatherers to those of complex sociopolitical entities like the state Although individual regional exchange systems are unique for each region and time period general patterns emerge relative to sociopolitical organization Of significant interest to us are the dynamic processes of change stability rate of growth and collapse of regional exchange systems relative to sociopolitical complexity These volumes provide basic data to further our understanding of prehistoric exchange systems The volume presents our current state of knowledge about regional exchange systems in the American Southwest and Mesoamerica Each chapter synthesizes the research findings of a number of other researchers in order to provide a synchronic view of regional interaction for a specific chronological period A diachronic view is also provided for regional interaction in the context of the developments in regional sociopolitical organization Most authors go beyond description by proposing alternative models within which to understand regional interaction The book is organized by geographical and chronological divisions to provide units of the broader mosaic of prehistoric exchange systems

New Approaches to Old Stones Yorke M. Rowan, Jennie R. Ebeling, 2016-04-08 Ground stone artefacts were widely used in food production in prehistory However the archaeological community has widely neglected the dataset of ground stone artefacts until now New Approaches to Old Stones offers a theoretical and methodological analysis of the archaeological data pertaining to ground stone tools The essays draw on a range of case studies from the Levant Egypt Crete Anatolia Mexico and North America to examine ground stone technologies From medieval Islamic stone cooking vessels and late Minoan stone vases to the use of stone in ritual and as a symbol of luxury New Approaches to Old Stones offers a radical reassessment of the impact of ground stone artefacts on technological change production and exchange

Emergence and Change in Early Urban Societies Linda Manzanilla, 2013-11-11 This book gives an overview of different factors involved in the emergence and change in early urban societies in fourth millennium Mesopotamia and Egypt pre Shang China Classic horizon Central Mexico Oaxaca and the Maya Area and Middle Horizon societies in the Andean Region These factors range from centralized storage and redistributive economies agrarian models mercantile network control conflict and conquest conversion of military commanders into administrators political power through monumental construction and elite power through ideological change It discusses specific archaeological data useful in theoretical construction In the Introduction a discussion of different developmental processes of urban societies is made The Eastern Anatolian example emphasizes the role played by interregional exchange networks linking the Mesopotamian plains with the Syro Anatolian regions The emergence of an elite is related with the control of the movement of craft goods and raw materials more than with the appropriation of subsistence goods The Chinese example stresses the importance of conflict provoked by demographic pressures on resources The Mesoamerican cases relate to vast urban developments and manufacturing centers ideological importance of monumental planning and changing behavior of elites The Andean cases are related either to the transformation of theocratic leadership into military administrators or to the agricultural intensification model

West Country Households, 1500-1700 John Allan, Nathaniel Warren Alcock, David Dawson, 2015 Essays on the development of the post medieval house its contents and decoration During the last forty years South West England has been the focus of some of the most significant work on the early modern house and household in

Britain Its remarkable wealth of vernacular buildings has been the object of much attention while the area has also seen productive excavations of early modern household goods shedding new light on domestic history This collection of papers written by many of the leading specialists in these fields presents a number of essays summarizing the overall understanding of particular themes and places alongside case studies which publish some of the most remarkable discoveries They include the extraordinary survival of wall hangings in a South Devon farm the discovery of painted rooms in an Elizabethan town house and a study of a table setting mirrored on its ceiling Also considered are forms of decoration which seem specific to particular areas of the West Country houses Taken together the papers offer a holistic view of the household in the early modern period John Allan is Consultant Archaeologist to the Dean Nat Alcock is Emeritus Reader in the Department of Chemistry University of Warwick David Dawson is an independent archaeologist and museum and heritage consultant Contributors Ann Adams Nat Alcock John Allan James Ayres Stuart Blaylock Peter Brears Tania Manuel Casimiro Cynthia Cramp Christopher Green Oliver Kent Kate Osborne Richard Parker Isabel Richardson John Schofield Eddie Sinclair John R L Thorp Hugh Wilmott

Urban Life in the Distant Past Michael E. Smith, 2023-03-30 In this book Michael Smith offers a comparative and interdisciplinary examination of ancient settlements and cities Early cities varied considerably in their political and economic organization and dynamics Smith here introduces a coherent approach to urbanism that is transdisciplinary in scope scientific in epistemology and anchored in the urban literature of the social sciences His new insight is energized crowding a concept that captures the consequences of social interactions within the built environment resulting from increases in population size and density within settlements Smith explores the implications of features such as empires states markets households and neighborhoods for urban life and society through case studies from around the world Direct influences on urban life as mediated by energized crowding are organized into institutional top down forces and generative bottom up processes Smith's volume analyzes their similarities and differences with contemporary cities and highlights the relevance of ancient cities for understanding urbanism and its challenges today

The Anasazi in a Changing Environment George J. Gumerman, 1988-10-27 An outline of a 1000 year chronicle of environmental and cultural history which attempts to explain broad patterns of interaction between humans and their environment It uses North American geological and botanical remains and looks at the behaviour of the Anasazi prehistoric Pueblo Indians

The Identity of Man Grahame Clark, 2023-07-07 First published in 1982 in the Identity of Man Professor Clark considers a problem which has puzzled men from the authors of the books of the Old Testament to Charles Darwin and his successors how to reconcile the animal appetites of men with their awareness of gods and their intimations of immortality What is it that differentiates us most decisively from the other Primates He argues that the distinction is to be found primarily in the fact that whereas the behaviour of other animals is largely dictated by their genes we follow or reject cultural patterns inherited through belonging to societies shaped by history Whereas other animals behave in a broadly homogenous way within breeding populations men adhere to the diversity of cultural traditions observed by ethnographers among peoples surviving on their fringes of the modern world and reconstructed by archaeologists from the cultural fossils of antiquity Grahame Clark has written an original and fascinating study drawing both on his lifetime s experience of archaeological material and on a wide range of other sources to throw new light on the question of man s identity This is a must read for archaeologists and anthropologists
