

Focused Review Notes

1. FACTORS INFLUENCING COMMUNITY HEALTH

a. Use of an Interpreter to Advocate for Clients

- i. Interpreters should not be from the same community as the client
- ii. Differences in socioeconomic status, religious affiliation, education level, and spoken dialect can result in translation barriers
- iii. Federal government mandates require agencies to have a plan that will improve access to federal health care programs for individuals who have limited English proficiency
- iv. Subcultures might have conflict
- v. Use culturally sensitive language
- vi. Interpreters should have knowledge of health-related terminology
- vii. The use of family members as interpreters is not advisable because the clients might need privacy in discussing sensitive matters

2. EPIDEMIOLOGY AND COMMUNICABLE DISEASES

a. Preventing and Influenza Outbreak

- i. Amantadine, rimantadine, and ribavirin may be prescribed for treatment and prevention of influenza
- ii. Duration of the infection can be shortened by antivirals such as the oral inhalant zanamivir and the oral tablet oseltamivir
- iii. Begin antiviral medications within 24 to 48 hours after the onset of manifestations
- iv. Influenza vaccines: quadrivalent and trivalent vaccines are prepared yearly depending upon the suspected strain of influenza expected to appear

3. HOME SAFETY

a. Client Teaching About Carbon Monoxide Exposure

- i. Very dangerous has because it binds with hemoglobin and ultimately reduces the oxygen supplies to the tissues in the body
- ii. Cannot be seen, smelled, or tasted
- iii. Manifestations: nausea, vomiting, headache, weakness, unconsciousness
- iv. Fatal with prolonged exposure
- v. Ensure proper ventilation when using fuel-burning devices
- vi. Gas-burning furnaces, water heaters, and appliances should be inspected annually
- vii. Carbon monoxide detectors should be installed and inspected regularly

4. TUBERCULOSIS

a. Preventing Disease Transmission

- i. Airborne precautions are not needed in the home setting because family members have already been exposed
- ii. Exposed family should be tested for TB

Semantics in Adaptive and Personalized Services Manolis Wallace,Ioannis Anagnostopoulos,Phivos Mylonas,Mária Bielíková,2010-02-28 Semantics in Adaptive and Personalised Services initially strikes one as a specific and perhaps narrow domain Yet a closer examination of the term reveals much more On one hand there is the issue of semantics Nowadays this most often refers to the use of OWL RDF or some other XML based ontology description language in order to represent the entities of problem Still semantics may also very well refer to the consideration of the meanings and concepts rather than arithmetic measures regardless of the representation used On the other hand there is the issue of adaptation i e automated re configuration based on some context This could be the network and device context the application context or the user context we refer to the latter case as personalization From a different perspective there is the issue of the point of view from which to examine the topic There is the point of view of tools referring to the algorithms and software tools one can use the point of view of the methods referring to the abstract methodologies and best practices one can follow as well as the point of view of applications referring to successful and pioneering case studies that lead the way in research and innovation Or at least so we thought Based on the above reasoning the editors identified key researchers and practitioners in each of the aforementioned categories and invited them to contribute a corresponding work to this book However as the authors contributions started to arrive the editors also started to realize that although these categories participate in each chapter to different degrees none of them can ever be totally obsolete from them Moreover it seems that theory and methods are inherent in the development of tools and applications and inversely the application is also inherent in the motivation and presentation of tools and methods

Predictive, Preventive, and Personalised Medicine: From Bench to Bedside Halina Podbielska,Marko Kapalla,2023-10-30 This volume presents advanced bio medical sciences with a particular value for translating research achievements into daily medical practice in the framework of Predictive Preventive and Personalised Medicine 3PM PPPM First two decades of the 21st century are characterised by epidemics of non communicable diseases such as many hundreds of millions of patients diagnosed with cardiovascular diseases and the type 2 diabetes mellitus breast lung liver and prostate malignancies neurological sleep mood and eye disorders amongst others Consequent socio economic burden is tremendous Unprecedented decrease in age of maladaptive individuals has been reported The absolute majority of expanding non communicable disorders carry a chronic character over a couple of years progressing from reversible suboptimal health conditions to irreversible severe pathologies and cascading collateral complications The paradigm change from reactive to predictive preventive and personalised medicine is essential to promote population health by application of individualised patient profiling multi parametric analysis leading to cost effective targeted prevention To this end inadequate data for risk assessment on speed and urgency of COVID 19 combined with increased globalization of human society led to the rapid spread of COVID 19 Despite an abundance of digital methods that could be used in slowing or stopping this virus and future pandemics the world remains unprepared and lessons have not been learned from previous cases of pandemics The book presents PPPM strategies which might be of great clinical utility for future pandemics In a long term way a significantly improved healthcare economy is one of the clear benefits of the proposed paradigm shift a tight collaboration between all stakeholders including scientific community healthcare providers patient organisations policy makers and educators is analysed for the smooth implementation of the 3PM concepts Further issues linked to big data management and medical ethics have to be carefully treated in the context of application of artificial intelligence in medicine
