Alternative Dispute Resolution and Peace-building in Africa Ernest E. Uwazie, 2014-06-26 Conflicts in Africa have a great deal in common and striking parallels can be drawn between them at all levels Dynamics affecting the most complex war time conflicts civil unrest and other macro disputes are in play even in the smallest community conflicts The converse is also true lessons learned through community mediation for example in South Africa are applicable to the most complex and largest conflicts to be found on the continent Together the eleven chapters in this publication in addition to the prologue and epilogue suggest that a comprehensive assessment of efforts and investments in conflict resolution and peace studies in Africa since the mid 1990s is due in order to identify lessons and challenges as well as best practices Just as conflict dynamics are comparable between African conflicts whether large or small local or international so are alternative dispute resolution processes Effective approaches to resolving large scale conflicts and civil wars are effective at the community level and ineffectual techniques at the community level are just as likely to be counter productive in mediating international disputes While there may be some differences in mediating macro and micro conflicts such as the time required the need for negotiation teams and the complexities of agenda development or pre negotiations as far as the mediation process is concerned the differences are more like variations on a theme than real substantive dissimilarities This volume provides case studies of programs and policies and legislations on alternative dispute resolution and peace building and examines and proposes some new promising ideas for conflict prevention as well as maintenance of peace justice and security in Africa

Personal Connections in the Digital Age Nancy K. Baym, 2015-08-04 The internet and the mobile phone have disrupted many of our conventional understandings of ourselves and our relationships raising anxieties and hopes about their effects on our lives In this second edition of her timely and vibrant book Nancy Baym provides frameworks for thinking critically about the roles of digital media in personal relationships Rather than providing exuberant accounts or cautionary tales it offers a data grounded primer on how to make sense of these important changes in relational life Fully updated to reflect new developments in technology and digital scholarship the book identifies the core relational issues these media disturb and shows how our talk about them echoes historical discussions about earlier communication technologies Chapters explore how we use mediated language and nonverbal behavior to develop and maintain communities social networks and new relationships and to maintain existing relationships in our everyday lives The book combines research findings with lively examples to address questions such as Can mediated interaction be warm and personal Are people honest about themselves online Can relationships that start online work Do digital media damage the other relationships in our lives Throughout the book argues that these questions must be answered with firm understandings of media qualities and the social and personal contexts in which they are developed and used This new edition of Personal Connections in the Digital Age will be required reading for all students and scholars of media communication studies and sociology as well as all those who want a richer understanding of digital media and everyday life Interpersonal Divide in the Age of the Machine Michael J.
