Professional Academic writing in Global Context Theresa Lillis,Mary Jane Curry,2010-04-30 Academic Writing in a Global Context addresses the issue of the pressure on academics worldwide to produce their work in English in scholarly publishing and why the growth of the use of academic English matters Drawing on an eight year text ethnographic study of the experiences of fifty scholars working in

Europe this book discusses these questions at both a macro and micro level through discussions of knowledge evaluation systems on all levels and analysis of the progress of a text towards publication In addition to this case studies of individual scholars in their local institutions and countries are used to illustrate experiences of using English in the academic world Academic Writing in a Global Context examines the impact of the growing dominance of English on academic writing for publication globally The authors explore the ways in which the global status attributed to English is impacting on the lives and practices of multilingual scholars working in contexts where English is not the official language of communication and throws into relief the politics surrounding academic publishing This book will be of interest to postgraduates and professionals in the fields of World Englishes language and globalization and English Language Teaching Healing Holidays Harish Naraindas, Cristiana Bastos, 2016-03-22 This volume on medical tourism includes contributions by anthropologists and historians on a variety of health seeking modes of travel and leisure It brings together analyses of recent trends of medical tourism such as underinsured middle class Americans traveling to India for surgery pious Middle Eastern couples seeking assisted reproduction outside their borders or consumers of the exotic in search of alternative healing with analyses of the centuries old Euro American tradition of traveling to spas Rather than seeing these two forms of medical travel as being disparate the book demonstrates that as noted in the introduction what makes patients itinerant in both the old and new kind of medical travel is either a perceived shortage or constraint at home or the sense of having reached a particular kind of therapeutic impasse with the two often so intertwined that it is difficult to tell them apart The constraint may stem from things as diverse as religious injunctions legal hurdles social approbation or seasonal affliction and the shortage can range from a lack of privacy of insurance technology competence or enough therapeutic resources that can address issues and conditions that patients have If these two intertwined strands are responsible for most medical tourism then which locales seem to have therapeutic resources are those that are either natural in the form of water or climate legal in the form of a culture that does not stigmatise patients or technological and professional in the form of tests equipment or expertise unavailable or affordable at home or in the form of novel therapeutic possibilities that promise to resolve irresolvable issues This book was originally published as a special issue of Anthropology Medicine
