Wings Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo The Longest Day Patton Top Gun An Officer and a Gentleman and Saving Private Ryan as well as the controversial war movies The Green Berets M A S H the Deer Hunter Apocalypse Now Platoon Full Metal Jacket and Born on the Fourth of July Infantry ,1994 Professional Journal of the United States Army ,1994 Best Sellers ,1959 Billboard ,1994-05-28 In its 114th year Billboard remains the world s premier weekly music publication and a diverse digital events brand content and data licensing platform Billboard publishes the most trusted charts and offers unrivaled reporting about the latest music video gaming media digital and mobile entertainment issues and trends Army History ,1996 Los Angeles Documentary and the Production of Public History, 1958-1977 Joshua Glick,2018-01-23 Los Angeles Documentary and the Production of Public History 1958 1977 explores how documentarians working between the election of John F Kennedy and the Bicentennial created conflicting visions of the recent and more distant American past Drawing on a wide range of primary documents Joshua Glick analyzes the films of Hollywood documentarians such as David Wolper and Mel Stuart along with lesser known independents and activists such as Kent Mackenzie Lynne Littman and Jes s Salvador Trevi o While the former group reinvigorated a Cold War cultural liberalism the latter group advocated for social justice in a city plagued by severe class stratification and racial segregation Glick examines how mainstream and alternative filmmakers turned to the archives civic institutions and production facilities of Los Angeles in order to both change popular understandings of the city and shape the social consciousness of the nation No Sacrifice Too Great Gregory Fontenot,2023-06-21 Winner of the 2023 Army Historical Foundation Distinguished Writing Award for Unit History The U S 1st Infantry Division 1st ID familiarly known as the Big Red One adapted to dynamic battlefield conditions throughout the course of its deployment during World War II by innovating and altering behavior including tactics techniques and procedures Both the Division s leaders and soldiers accomplished this by thinking critically about their experiences in combat and wasting little time in putting lessons learned to good use Simply put they learned on the job in battle and after battle and did so quickly In telling the Division s WWII story which includes an extensive photographic essay featuring many previously unpublished images Gregory Fontenot includes the stories of individual members of the Big Red One from high ranking officers to enlisted men fresh off the streets of Brooklyn both during and after the conflict Colonel Fontenot s rare ability to combine expert analysis with compelling narrative history makes No Sacrifice Too Great an absorbing read for anyone interested in the military history of the United States World War II, Film, and History John Whiteclay Chambers II,David Culbert,1996-10-10 The immediacy and perceived truth of the visual image as well as film and television s ability to propel viewers back into the past place the genre of the historical film in a special category War films including antiwar films have established the prevailing public image of war in the twentieth century For American audiences the dominant image of trench warfare in World War I has been provided by feature films such as All Quiet on the Western Front and Paths of Glory The image of combat in the Second World War has been shaped by films like Sands of Iwo Jima and The Longest Day And despite claims for the alleged impact of widespread television coverage of the Vietnam War it is actually films such as Apocalypse Now and Platoon which have provided the most powerful images of what is seen as the reality of that much disputed conflict But to what degree does history written with lightning as Woodrow Wilson allegedly said represent the reality of the past To what extent is visual history an oversimplification or even a distortion of the past Exploring the relationship between moving images and the society and culture in which they were produced and received World War II Film and History addresses the power these images have had in determining our perception and memories of war Examining how the public memory of war in the twentieth century has often been created more by a manufactured past than a remembered one a leading group of historians discusses films dating from the early 1930s through the early 1990s created by filmmakers the world over from the United States and Germany to Japan and the former Soviet Union For example Freda Freiberg explains how the inter racial melodramatic Japanese feature film China Nights in which a manly and protective Japanese naval officer falls in love with a beautiful young Chinese street waif and molds her into a cultured submissive wife proved enormously popular with wartime Japanese and helped justify the invasion of China in the minds of many Japanese viewers Peter Paret assesses the historical accuracy of Kolberg as a depiction of an unsuccessful siege of that German city by a French Army in 1807 and explores how the film released by Hitler's regime in January 1945 explicitly called for civilian sacrifice and last ditch resistance Stephen Ambrose contrasts what we know about the historical reality of the Allied D Day landings in Normandy on June 6 1944 with the 1962 release of The Longest Day in which the major climactic moment in the film never happened at Normandy Alice Kessler Harris examines The Life and Times of Rosie the Riveter a 1982 film documentary about women defense workers on the American home front in World War II emphasizing the degree to which the documentary's engaging main characters and its message of the need for fair and equal treatment for women resonates with many contemporary viewers And Clement Alexander Price contrasts Men of Bronze William Miles's fine documentary about black American soldiers who fought in France in World War I with Liberators the controversial documentary by Miles and Nina Rosenblum which incorrectly claimed that African American troops liberated Holocaust survivors at Dachau in World War II In today's visually oriented world powerful images even images of images are circulated in an eternal cycle gaining increased acceptance through repetition History becomes an endless loop in which repeated images validate and reconfirm each other Based on archival materials many of which have become only recently available World War II Film and History offers an informative and a disturbing look at the complex relationship between national myths and filmic memory as well as the dangers of visual images being transformed into reality

Destructive Sublime Tanine Allison, 2018-06-25

The American popular imagination has long portrayed World War II as the good war fought by the greatest generation for the sake of freedom and democracy Yet combat films and other war media complicate this conventional view by indulging in explosive displays of spectacular violence Combat sequences Tanine Allison argues construct a counter narrative of World War II by reminding viewers of the war's harsh brutality Destructive Sublime traces a new aesthetic history of the World War II combat genre by looking back at it through the lens of contemporary video games like Call of Duty Allison locates some of video games glorification of violence disruptive audiovisual style and bodily sensation in even the most canonical and seemingly conservative films of the genre In a series of case studies spanning more than seventy years from wartime documentaries like The Battle of San Pietro to fictional reenactments like The Longest Day and Saving Private Ryan to combat video games like Medal of Honor this book reveals how the genre's aesthetic forms reflect and influence how American culture conceives of war nation and representation itself

The Leatherneck, 1994 The Normandy Campaign 1944 John Buckley, 2006-07-29 With essays from leading names in military history this new book re examines the crucial issues and debates of the D Day campaign It tackles a range of core topics placing them in their current historiographical context to present new and sometimes revisionist interpretations of key issues such as the image of the Allied armies compared with the Germans the role of air power and the lessons learned by the military from their operations As the Second World War is increasingly becoming a field of revisionism this book sits squarely within growing debates shedding new light on topics and bringing current thinking from our leading military and strategic historians to a wider audience This book will be of great interest to students of the Second World War and of military and strategic studies in general

The Cover up at Omaha Beach Gary Sterne, 2013-12-04 The Rangers mission was clear They were to lead the assault on Omaha Beach and breakout inland Simultaneously other Ranger units would scale the cliffs at Pointe du Hoc to destroy the huge gun battery there and thus protect the invasion fleet from being targeted But was the Pointe du Hoc mission actually necessary Why did the Allies plan and execute an attack on a gun battery which they knew in advance contained no field guns And more importantly why did they ignore the position at Maisy that did Using personal interviews with the surviving Rangers who fought on the beach and at Pointe du Hoc this is a work of exceptionally detailed and fresh research which takes the reader into the centre of the action alongside the Rangers Gary Sterne has made a painstaking study of what the Allies actually knew in advance of D day and about the Maisy Battery Maps orders and assault plans have been found in the UK German and US archives many of which were not released from the Top Secrecy Act for 60 years Radio communications have been found from the Rangers as they advanced inland towards Maisy and intelligence evaluations made by the RAF of bombing missions directed at the site have now been released All these combine to make this one of the most up to date references on the subject
