Realizing a Good Life Elizabeth Comack, 2023-04-27T00:00:00Z
Realizing a good life is almost always defined in material terms typified by individuals usually men who have considerable wealth But classed gendered and racialized social supports enable the self made man Instead this book turns to Indigenous knowledge about realizing a good life to explore how marginalized men endeavour to overcome systemic inequalities in their efforts to achieve wholeness balance connection harmony and healing Twenty three men most of whom are Indigenous share their stories of this journey For most the pathway started in challenging circumstances intergenerational trauma disrupted families and child welfare interventions racism and bullying and physical and sexual abuse Most coped with the pain through drugging and drinking or joining a street gang setting many on a trajectory to jail Caught in the criminal justice net realizing a good life was even more daunting as their identities and life chances became barriers Some of the men however have made great strides to realize a good life They tell us how they got out of the problem with insights on how to maintain sobriety navigate systemic barriers and forge connections and circles of support Ultimately it comes down to social supports and caring As one man put it change happened when he had to care for somebody else in a way he wanted to be cared for
