Dads Army 13 Mums Army:

Dad's Army Goes to War Melody Foreman, 2024-12-30 For decades the classic evergreen BBC comedy Dad's Army has entertained millions of viewers around the world. But the farcical antics of Walmington-on-Sea's bumbling Home Guard platoon camouflage the true military service of some of the actors themselves. Despite their light-hearted appearance, many of the cast saw active service in one or even both of the world wars, and much of it far from humorous. The inspiration behind the sitcom was the experiences of one of its writers, Jimmy Perry, who as a young 16-year-old wannabe comedian was still waiting for his call-up papers when he joined the eager warriors of the Home Guard in 1940. Little did he know how decades later that ribald group of men in the Watford battalion would provide the inspiration which put his name up in lights. Indeed, it was Perry's own goofy gullibility as a teenager that helped form the character of Private Pike. Also admitted Perry the affable Lance Corporal Jones in real life Clive Dunn, a former prisoner of war who served in the 4th Queen's Own Hussars, was partly based on an old soldier Perry knew who had served in the Sudan. This veteran recalled being told by a CO to piss on your rifle to cool it down. Perry went on to serve in India in the Royal Artillery and then later with Combined Services Entertainments. As a twenty-year-old British Army officer, David Croft, was stationed in North Africa when a raft of comical events, including his struggles with a Bofors gun, went on to shape the calamities which befall the Dad's Army troopers. Theater mad Derbyshire lad Arthur Lowe, who played the redoubtable Captain Mainwaring, was thin with knobbly knees when he was seconded to the No. 2 Field Entertainment Unit in Egypt. Meantime, languid, good-mannered actor John Le Mesurier reported for duty with the Royal Tank Regiment complete with golf clubs in his car boot. By 1943, he was ironically enduring life in Deolali Doolally in India when he had a captaincy thrust upon him until being demobbed in 1946. The astonishing bravery of actor and playwright Arnold Ridley, who was denied a DSO and a Military Medal for his actions during the First World War, makes for heart-rending reading. His creation of dear old Private Godfrey won him millions of adoring fans. The classical actor John Laurie, Private We're all doomed Frazer, was also a hero of the trenches. Always dry-witted, he once made everyone laugh on set when he remarked, "I've played every part in Shakespeare. I was considered to be the finest Hamlet of the 1920s, and I had retired, and now I am famous for doing this crap." That each man, including the mocking Laurie, helped turn Dad's Army into everlasting success will never be forgotten. And why? Well, in reality, they had seen war and knew war, and yet always completely realised and understood how the power of laughter is the ultimate triumph. Dad's Army Bill Pertwee, 2009-11-03 Dad's Army has been an enduring highlight of the small screen since its debut on British television in 1968. The show, which follows the exploits of the Home Guard of Walmington-on-Sea, a fictional seaside town on the south coast of England, ran for nine series in total, comprising 80 episodes, and regularly attracted viewing figures of over 18 million at the height of its popularity. Today, it is still shown weekly on BBC2 and was recently placed fourth in a BBC poll of Britain's Best Sitcoms Ever. The show has permeated British society with the characters' signature catchphrases, particularly Captain Mainwaring's Stupid boy having entered the lexicon of popular culture. Such is its appeal that in August 2008 Jonathan Ross paid tribute to Dad's Army with an hour long special looking back on the show's success and reliving its funniest moments. Yet Dad's Army is also credited with drawing attention to the important role that Local Defence Volunteers later known as the Home Guard played in the Second World War in guarding coastal areas of Britain and other important industrial and military sites such as factories and explosives stores and in observing and reporting enemy aircraft. Bill Pertwee found fame as ARP Warden Hodges in the series and has put together a comprehensive tribute to all aspects of the show. This book includes extensive features on the two creators of Dad's Army Jimmy Perry and David Croft along with biographies of the whole cast of actors who brought this British comedy classic to life paying particular attention to such memorable figures as Arthur Lowe Captain Mainwaring John Le Mesurier Sergeant Wilson Clive Dunn Corporal Jones and Ian Lavender Private Pike. As an integral part of the show itself Bill Pertwee is uniquely positioned to give an intimate view of his co-stars their families and the supporting production team. His colourful account includes many hilarious incidents on and off the set such as filming for Columbia Pictures and being invited to tea at 10 Downing Street. Numerous colour photos as well as a fine selection of well reproduced original stills supplement the informative text and a full episode listing is included together with articles on the many Dad's Army spin-offs and side projects including the highly successful stage play movie adaptation and radio series.

Reconstructing the Past Sian Nicholas, Tom O'Malley, Kevin Williams, 2013-09-13 Bringing together a team of history and media researchers from across Britain and Europe this volume provides readers with a themed discussion of the range and variety of the media's engagement with history and a close study of the relationship between media history and national identity.

Jimmy Perry and David Croft Simon Morgan-Russell, 2004 This book explores the collaborative sitcoms of two of British television's most well known comedy writers. Written over a period of twenty five years the four series Dad's Army It Ain't Half Hot Mum Hi de Hi and You Rang M Lord have endured as much loved and often repeated classics. The book explores the themes of Perry and Croft's writing in terms of their own biography and as articulations of British cultural and televisual history. Focusing on issues central to the concept of identity in British culture class gender sexuality and race and analysing individual episodes and scenes in the four series Jimmy Perry and David Croft evaluates the contributions made by these two writers to the genre of situation comedy and locates the programmes in the immediate contexts of their production. Including new interview material from David Croft this book will be invaluable to students and lecturers of television studies and cultural studies.

National Service Life Stories Peter Gurney, Matthew Grant, Joel Morley, 2025-01-25 National service was a defining feature for a generation of young men in post war Britain Around 2 3 million of them were called up between the end of World War Two and 1963 when conscription ended However national service was forgotten almost before it had ended a process aided subsequently by professional historians who have been reluctant to assess its longer term influence on British social and political history Based on original oral interviews with well over one hundred men this book explores the ways in which compulsory military participation reverberated in the memories of interviewees long beyond the end of conscription and how these early military experiences shaped their later life stores Unlike existing accounts that tend to rely on memoirs written by officers or else oral interviews that concentrate narrowly on the details of military service this study focusses instead on men from working class backgrounds and it situates national service in the context of the life course and the wider transformations that have occurred in British society since conscription ended In so doing the work shines new light on important areas of current scholarly interest and historiographical concern including the changing meaning and experience of class masculinity and citizenship as well as the complexities of popular memory Annual Report of the Bureau of Military Record of the State of New York , 1867 Contesting home defence Penny Summerfield, Corinna Peniston-Bird, 2013-07-19 Contesting home defence is a new history of the Home Guard a novel national defence force of the Second World War composed of civilians who served as part time soldiers it questions accounts of the force and the war which have seen them as symbols of national unity It scrutinises the Home Guard's reputation and explores whether this people's army was a site of social cohesion or of dissension by assessing the competing claims made for it at the time It then examines the way it was represented during the war and has been since notably in Dad's Army and discusses the memories of men and women who served in it The book makes a significant and original contribution to debates concerning the British home front and introduces fresh ways of understanding the Second World War Military Schools and Courses of
