Architecture in Burma Lorie Karnath, 2023-12-16 The architecture in Burma represents a mixture of the country's history politics natural assets religion and superstition Despite some recent advances toward modernization in architectural terms centuries of relative seclusion have caused this country to remain something of a historical timeline Burma's resplendent temples stately colonial edifices and myriad of structures that comprise innumerable fishing and country villages provide an architectural window into the country's diverse and oftentimes tumultuous history The turbulence of the region punctuated by dynastic squabbles is perhaps best chronicled and understood by way of its architecture The escalation of successional quarrels frequently resulted in new rulers packing up entire palaces and other structures and hauling these by elephant to establish a new seat of government or capital elsewhere The vestiges of the old cities were for the most part simply left to the vicissitudes of nature

Chapman, 2013-07-31 The ancient ruins of Southeast Asia have long sparked curiosity and romance in the world's imagination They appear in accounts of nineteenth century French explorers as props for Indiana Jones adventures and more recently as the scene of Lady Lara Croft's fantastical battle with the forces of evil They have been featured in National Geographic magazine and serve as backdrops for popular television travel and reality shows Now William Chapman's expansive new study explores the varied roles these monumental remains have played in the histories of Southeast Asia's modern nations Based on more than fifteen years of travel research and visits to hundreds of ancient sites A Heritage of Ruins shows the close connection between ruins conservation and both colonialism and nation building. It also demonstrates the profound impact of European derived ideas of historic and aesthetic significance on ancient ruins and how these continue to color the management and presentation of sites in Southeast Asia today. Angkor Pagan, Bagan, Borobudur and Ayutthaya lie at the center of this cultural and architectural tour, but less visited sites including Laos's stunning Vat Phou, the small temple platforms of Malaysia's Lembah Bujang Valley, the candi of the Dieng Plateau in Java and the ruins of Mingun in Burma and Wiang Kum Kam near Chiang Mai in northern Thailand are also discussed. All share a relative isolation from modern urban centers of population, sitting in park like settings serving as objects of tourism and as lynchpins for local and even national economies. Chapman argues that these sites also remain important to surrounding residents both as a means of income and as continuing sources of spiritual meaning. He examines the complexities of heritage efforts in the context of present day expectations by focusing on the roles of both outside and indigenous experts in conservation and management and on attempts by local populations to reclaim their patrimony and play a larger role in protection and interpretation. Tracing the history of interventions aimed at halting time's decay, Chapman provides a chronicle of conservation efforts over a century and a half, highlighting the significant part foreign expertise has played in the region and the ways that national programs have in recent years begun to break from earlier models. The book ends with suggestions for how Southeast Asian managers and officials might best protect their incomparable heritage of art and architecture and how this legacy might be preserved for future generations.

Social Transformations in India, Myanmar, and Thailand: Volume I Chosein Yamahata, Donald M. Seekins, Makiko Takeda, 2021-01-02 This book focuses on the different challenges and opportunities for social transformation in India, Myanmar and Thailand by centering communities and individuals as the main drivers of change. In doing so, it includes discussions on a wide array of issues including women's empowerment and political participation, ethno-religious tensions, plurilingualism, education reform, community based healthcare, climate change, disaster management, ecological systems and vulnerability reduction. Two core foundations are introduced for ensuring broader transformations. The first is the academic diplomacy project, a framework for an engaged academic enquiry focusing on causative, curative, transformative and promotive factors. The second is a community driven collective struggle that serves as a grassroots possibility to facilitate positive social transformation by using locally available resources and enabling the participation of the resident population. As a whole, the book conveys the importance of a diversification of engagement at the grassroots level to strengthen the capacity of individuals as decisive stakeholders where the process of social transformation makes communities more interconnected, interdependent, multicultural and vital in building an inclusive society.

The Regional Travel Guide for Upper Myanmar (Myanmar) YouGuide Ltd, Kingdoms of Burma Amelia Khatri, 2025-02-12 Kingdoms of Burma delves into the captivating history of early Burmese kingdoms and their profound influence on Southeast Asia It explores how small settlements evolved into influential powers shaping the region's political and cultural development. The book reveals that these kingdoms actively participated in a network of political and cultural exchange impacting Southeast Asia's identity and emphasizes the importance of Burmese history in understanding modern Myanmar. The book chronologically examines key periods from the Pyu city states to the Bagan Empire and the Ava Taungoo and Konbaung dynasties. It analyzes these kingdoms' social, economic, and religious underpinnings, relationships with neighbors, and lasting cultural legacies. For example, the rise of Theravada Buddhism during the Bagan Empire significantly impacted the region. By synthesizing scholarship and original research, the book provides a balanced account of Burma's pre-colonial history, emphasizing the agency of the Burmese people. The book progresses through the pre-Bagan era, the rise and fall of the Bagan Empire, the emergence of Ava and Taungoo, and the Konbaung dynasty's expansionist policies. By examining archaeological evidence, inscriptions, chronicles, and scholarly works, the book reconstructs the political, social, and economic dynamics of these kingdoms. This approach offers readers a comprehensive understanding of Burmese history and its place in the broader world.

Citizens, Civil Society and Heritage-making in Asia Hsin-Huang Michael Hsiao, Hui Yew-Foong, Philippe Peycam, 2017-06-30

This volume is based on papers from the second in a series of three conferences that deal with the multi-scalar processes of heritage making ranging from the local to the national and international levels involving different players with different degrees of agency and interests. These players include citizens and civil society, the state, and international organizations and actors. The current volume focuses on the role of citizens and civil society in the politics of heritage making, looking at how these players at the grass roots level make sense of the past in the present. Who are these local players that seek to define the meaning of heritage in their everyday lives? How do they negotiate with the state or contest the influence of the state in determining what their heritage is? These and other questions will be taken up in various Asian contexts in this volume to foreground the local dynamics of heritage politics.

Buddhist Visual Cultures, Rhetoric, and Narrative in Late Burmese Wall Paintings Alexandra Green, 2018-01-04

Step into a Burmese temple built between the late seventeenth and early nineteenth centuries and you are surrounded by a riot of color and imagery. The majority of the highly detailed wall paintings displays Buddhist biographical narratives inspiring the devotees to follow the Buddha's teachings. Alexandra Green goes one step further to consider the temples and their contents as a whole, arguing that the wall paintings mediate the relationship between the architecture and the main Buddha statues in the temples. This forges a unified space for the devotees to interact with the Buddha and his community with the aim of transforming the devotees' current and future lives. These temples were a cohesively articulated and represented Burmese Buddhist world to which the devotees belonged. Green's visits to more than 160 sites with identifiable subject matter form the basis of this richly illustrated volume, which draws upon art, historical, anthropological, and religious studies methodologies to analyze the wall paintings and elucidate the contemporary religious, political, and social concepts that drove the creation of this lively art form.

Rhetoric and Narrative in Late Burmese Wall Paintings is truly a tour de force that allows us to see Burmese temple paintings of the Life of the Buddha and similar themes as an open ended genre that like literary discourse participates in wider social intellectual and religious contexts Juliane Schober Arizona State University Alexandra Green introduces this relatively unknown material and subjects it to sophisticated analysis This study is major step towards creating a template that could be used for analyzing other late traditions of Buddhist painting Janice Leoshko University of Texas at Austin

Semites and Hamites (cont.). Malayo-Mongoloids John Clark Ridpath, 1893 The Evolution of Indian Stupa Architecture in East Asia Eric Stratton, 2002 Contents I Introduction II Symbolic analysis of religious architecture III Indianization in Southeast Asia lineage one 1 Religious foundations 2 Architecture 3 Java 4 Cambodia 5 Champa IV Burma lineage two 1 Thai Era 2 The lineages of stupa forms V The philosophical Indianization of Northeast Asia the third lineage 1 China 2 Korea 3 Japan 4 Tibet 5 Mongolia 6 The Tibetan stupa Bibliography This work seeks to explore the development of East Asian architecture based upon its borrowings from the Indian stupa While most scholars agree that some features of East Asian religious architecture have been strongly influenced by the symbolic architecture of the stupa this study specifically seeks to identify three distinct architectural lineages originating from India to East Asia These lineages were inspired by the work of Liang Ssu Ch'eng who first identified several families of pagoda structures in Mainland China in the early part of the 20 century However here we extend our search to all the nations that have employed the stupa architecture outside India and Nepal These other lineages have been identified through careful analysis in archaeological anthropological historical and religious studies The first of these lineages extends through Indo China and Indonesia The second lineage is mainly found extending through Burma Both lineages one and two meet together in later Thai architecture The third lineage extends across Central Asia to the shores and nations of Far East Asia such as Japan Korea and China As all the lineages are demonstrated to be imbued and propagated by the scared and ancient symbolism of India each chapter examines the history of Indian thought as it was introduced into a region and then discusses the features of the most well known structures of that region jacket
