Rethinking the French City Monique Yaari, 2008-01-01 This book considers the post 68 French city as a prism through which to understand the contemporary world and France's specificity within it. The reader is invited to join in a series of exploratory strolls through texts, buildings and neighborhoods and thereby share in a process of discovery. Zeroing in on international architectural debates, a range of key Parisian exhibitions and major urban design decisions in Paris, Montpellier and Lille, Yaari unravels an often acerbic French critique of both modern and postmodern positions on culture, technology and the city. This critique, stemming from the competing claims of national identity, the ethics of architecture and display and an anthropologically informed revision of prevailing views on the city, has sparked in France a passionate search for a third path which the author proposes to term apr's moderne. Breaking new ground in the field of French Studies through cultural analysis of the contemporary city, this study brings new insight to scholars and professionals in architecture and urbanism and will interest all others for whom France and cities in general hold special appeal.

Modern Architecture in Historic Cities Sebastian Loew, 2003-09-02 Modern Architecture in Historic Cities illustrates why France has been so successful in combining conservation and modernity and points to important lessons for other countries which can be drawn from the French experience. Beginning with an empirical review of particular events which have affected attitudes towards heritage in France, this book highlights the continuity in French thinking and the longstanding role of the French government as patron and leader. Planning, conservation and design control legislation are examined, highlighting the range of instruments available to government in order to influence results and enhance the role of the architectural profession.

Alain Sarfati Alain Sarfati, Martin Meade, 1990 Critical Strategies for Ecological Architectures Mathias Rollot, 2025-11-01 This book addresses the alarming state of the planet and considers a potential new role for architecture in the Anthropocene. It explores ways in which architecture could contribute to solutions as well as how the discipline should prepare for the future. Drawing on other disciplines such as bioregionalism, animalism and decolonial thinking, it demonstrates how architecture can extend its relevance. The book introduces new theoretical approaches that encourage completely different ways of thinking, showing and designing. It introduces concepts such as human energy, decolonial bioregionalism and emancipatory architecture which serve to challenge anthropocentric theories and promote more sustainable architectural practices. This book makes an ethical appeal to architects and non architects alike, proposing new strategies for thinking, teaching and creating a wholly different kind of architecture for a rapidly changing world. In doing so, it addresses the challenges facing contemporary societies and ecological changes, demonstrating how the ecological humanities can transform architecture as a field and radically alter its history, references, values and aims. The book aims to contribute to a metamorphosis of architecture towards greater ecological and emancipatory capacity and towards pluriversal bioregions.
