Alcoholism And Aging Advances In Research:

Alcohol and Aging Thomas P. Beresford, Edith Lisansky Gomberg, 1995 U S census figures forecast that the percentage of U S citizens over the age of 65 will double between 1980 and 2030 Estimates that between 3 and 10% of this group are prone to alcohol abuse points to the potential for an increasingly ominous health care problem Alcohol and Aging the first comprehensive treatment of the topic written for clinicians covers a wide range of issues unique to elderly alcoholics from diagnosis and treatment to alcohol related medical and cognitive disorders from problems arising from interactions between alcohol and medication to the biochemistry of intoxication Throughout the book focuses on clinical practical problems and stays away from jargon making it accessible to a wide range of readers Featuring contributions a diverse group of specialists the book will be an invaluable aid to physicians psychiatrists clinical psychologists and social workers who treat alcoholism in the aging population Recent Developments in Alcoholism Marc Galanter, 2013-11-22 From the President of the Research Society on Alcoholism In recent years increasingly convincing evidence in support of a biobehavioral conceptual model of the etiology of alcoholism has emerged In this model the disorder is perceived as arising from the interaction of genetic biological vulnerability and psychosocial risk Drinking or alcohol seeking is a metric trait Alcoholism which is a state of abnormally intense alcohol seeking behavior that over time leads to the alcohol dependence syndrome lies at the extreme high end of this quantitative measure Metric traits are influenced by multiple genes the extent of genetic loading of biological risk for alcoholism would be different in different individuals Added to this kind of variability is the wide range of options for exposure to the psychosocial risk factors of heavy drinking provided by modern society Further environmental provocation also changes when life events change It is not surprising therefore from the combination of the kinds of genetic and environmental variability described above that there is a wide array of patterns of expression of the disorder alcoholism referred to by some as alcoholisms In the search for understanding of underlying mechanisms and rational bases for potential therapy it is important to focus our attention on the final common pathway of this disorder alcohol seeking behavior This series ever since its beginning in 1983 has been sensitive to the complexities of the interaction between biological and psychosocial risk factors in alcoholism Surgeon General's Workshop, Health Promotion and Aging Faye G. Abdellah, Steven R. Moore, 1987 Nutritional Intervention in the Aging Process H.J. Armbricht, J.M. Prendergast, R.M. Coe, 2012-12-06 There has been much popular and scientific interest in the fields of nutrition and aging in recent years As the importance of proper nutrition in children and young adults becomes more fully understood it is natural to wonder if proper nutrition could play a similar role in later life Recent research has indicated that nutrition can potentially intervene in the aging process in at least two ways First studies in animals and humans have shown that nutrition can be used to improve functional status which in turn is related to perceived quality of life Second nutritional manipulation has been used to extend maximal life span in laboratory animals How these interesting findings apply to the human situation remains to be explored

The purpose of this book is twofold The first is to present recent advances in our basic knowledge of how nutrition and aging interact with each other The second is to discuss some applications of this knowledge to the care of the elderly patient The interaction between aging and nutrition is complex because each may act on the other in either a synergistic or antagonistic fashion Aging may alter the nutritional status of the elderly by affecting the way nutrients are absorbed and utilized by the body Aging may also influence food intake and therefore nutritional status by decreasing the palatability of food The environment of the elderly may change so they are less likely to eat well balanced meals Alcohol Problems and Aging Edith Lisansky Gomberg, Andrea M. Hegedus, Robert A. Zucker, 1998 Alcoholism and Aging Nancy Osgood, Helen E. Wood, Iris Parham, 1995-02-22 Experts in gerontology clinical psychology and geriatric medicine provide an analytical survey and abstracts of the significant literature and research dealing with alcoholism and aging over the last 30 years This research guide offers a general survey with sections dealing separately with the prevalence precipitants effects diagnosis prevention and treatment of alcoholism in the older generation The book also offers directions for future research The narrative ends with a listing of references that have been assessed The annotated bibliography gives abstracts for 301 sources that are arranged by types of works bibliographies overview articles books and book chapters empirical studies and miscellaneous works Cross references and author and subject indexes make this guide readily accessible to students and teachers in the field of sociology gerontology psychology medicine and public health Alcohol and Coffee Use in the Aging Ronald Ross Watson, 2000-09-28 As we age our physiology changes Also we tend to place less emphasis on proper nutrition The more elderly we grow the less resistant we become to major diseases such as cancer and heart disease This state of affairs renders the elderly more vulnerable to alcohol and other drugs of abuse Alcohol and tobacco are routinely used together Chroni
