Instruction and Technology J.M. Spector, T.M. Anderson, 2005-12-17 One outcome of recent progress in educational technology is strong interest in providing effective support for learning in complex and ill structured domains We know how to use technology to promote understanding in simpler domains e g orientation information procedures with minimal branching etc but we are less sure how to use technology to support understanding in more complex domains e g managing limited resources understanding environmental impacts etc Such domains are increasingly significant for society Technology e g collaborative tele learning digital repositories interactive simulations etc can provide conceptually and functionally rich domains for learning However this introduces the problem of determining what works in which circumstances and why Research and development on these matters is reflected in this collection of papers This research suggests a need to rethink foundational issues in educational philosophy and learning technology One major theme connecting these papers is the need to address learning in the large from a more holistic perspective A second theme concerns the need to take learners where and as they are integrating technology into effective learning places Significant and systematic progress in learning support for complex domains demands further attention to these important issues Technology and Assessment National Research

Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Center for Education, Board on Testing and Assessment, 2002-04-26 The papers in this collection were commissioned by the Board on Testing and Assessment BOTA of the National Research Council NRC for a workshop held on November 14 2001 with support from the William and Flora Hewlett Foundation Goals for the workshop were twofold One was to share the major messages of the recently released NRC committee report Knowing What Students Know The Science and Design of Educational Assessment 2001 which synthesizes advances in the cognitive sciences and methods of measurement and considers their implications for improving educational assessment The second goal was to delve more deeply into one of the major themes of that report the role that technology could play in bringing those advances together which is the focus of these papers For the workshop selected researchers working in the intersection of technology and assessment were asked to write about some of the challenges and opportunities for more fully capitalizing on the power of information technologies to improve assessment to illustrate those issues with examples from their own research and to identify priorities for research and development in this area Research Report, 2000

Cognitive Mapping for Problem-based and Inquiry Learning Juanjuan Chen, 2022-07-29 This book studies how to improve problem based and inquiry based learning by incorporating cognitive maps Problem based learning and cognitive mapping are reviewed from the perspective of both learning sciences and cognitive sciences including the underpinning theories of experiential learning situated learning collaborative learning meaningful learning externalized representations and visual representations The result is a comprehensive review and analysis of cognitive mapping supported problem based learning with the topic discussed from cognitive metacognitive social and motivational and emotional perspectives Furthermore the author presents a theory driven design implementation and analysis of design based research to improve problem based learning using cognitive mapping The book will provide implications for researchers and practitioners of learning sciences psychology instructional systems and cognitive tools Learning and Performance Assessment: Concepts, Methodologies, Tools, and Applications Management Association, Information Resources, 2019-10-11

As teaching strategies continue to change and evolve and technology use in classrooms continues to increase it is imperative that their impact on student learning is monitored and assessed New practices are being developed to enhance students participation especially in their own assessment be it through peer review reflective assessment the introduction of new technologies or other novel solutions Educators must remain up to date on the latest methods of evaluation and performance measurement techniques to ensure that their students excel Learning and Performance Assessment Concepts Methodologies Tools and Applications is a vital reference source that examines emerging perspectives on the theoretical and practical aspects of learning and performance based assessment techniques and applications within educational settings Highlighting a range of topics such as learning outcomes assessment design and peer assessment this multi volume book is ideally designed for educators administrative officials principals deans instructional designers school boards academicians researchers and education students seeking coverage on an educator s role in evaluation design and analyses of evaluation methods and outcomes Science, 2009
