When tipping is appropriate and when it is not Ancestral Images Hugh Baker, 2011-07-01 A new edition in one volume of Hugh Baker's celebrated three volumes of Ancestral Images originally published in 1979, 1980 and 1981. The 120 articles and photographs explore everyday life, customs and rituals in Hong Kong's rural New Territories. Each mouthful is complete in itself but together the articles amount to a substantial feast. They investigate religion, food, language, history, festivals, family, strange happenings and clan warfare. The book documents much that can no longer be found. But it also provides an understanding of a world which has not yet entirely disappeared and which still forms the background for life in modern urban Hong Kong. Esoteric nuggets of information are scattered through the book. How do you ascend a Pagoda with no staircase? How can you marry without attending the wedding? When is it wrong to buy a book? Race to the Sea Dr. Dayton Lee Alverson, 2008-11-03 Dr. Alverson's story covers his early life, experiences through high school, World War II, his education and his involvement in State, Federal and International fisheries science and management. His career and story cover the period 1950-2000, during which world fisheries would explode from small boat coastal activities to distant water fleets of large vessels. World catches would increase over 300% after WWII and most of the world's oceans and seas would be heavily exploited. Overfishing and impacts on coastal fisheries would lead the world community to seek new laws for the harvest of ocean fisheries and result in unilateral extension of national jurisdictions over ocean space. The growth of environmental movement in the later half of the 20th century would lead to conflicts between fishing and conservation groups, resulting in changes in national and international fish policies. The book tracks many of these developments and Dr. Alverson's personal involvements and experiences during the traumatic period of world fishery expansion. During the course of his life, marine fisheries resource would be seen as the great source of world protein to feed the world's hungry and later as overfished and polluted.

The Cold War and Entertainment Television Lori Maguire, 2016-08-17 An essential dimension of the Cold War took place in the realm of ideas and culture. While much work exists on cinema, relatively little research has been conducted on this subject in relation to television, despite the latter being a technology and popular cultural form that emerged during this period. This book rectifies that absence by examining the impact of the Cold War on entertainment television and underlines the comparative aspect by studying programs from both blocs without forgetting, of course, the outsize impact of American television. Although most of the focus is on the two main protagonists, the US and the USSR, chapters also consider programming from the UK, Czechoslovakia, Romania and both East and West Germany. This book represents a contribution to the debate about the cultural Cold War through a rigorously comparative analysis of the two blocs. For this reason, the approach used is thematic. The study begins by considering the subject of censorship and then goes on to look at the very particular case of the two Germanys. A series of comparative genre studies follow, including police and war, variety shows and documentaries and docudramas. Perhaps surprisingly, the similarities are often greater than the differences between television in the two blocs.
