time the historical background indispensable for understanding Japan's current perspectives and policies in the vast area of Eurasia across the Middle East and Central Asia. Japanese diplomats, military officers, archaeologists, and linguists traversed the Silk Road involving Japan in the Great Game and exploring ancient civilizations. The book exposes the entanglements of pre-war Japanese Pan-Asianism with Pan-Islamism, Turkic nationalism, and Mongolian independence as a global history of imperialism. Japanese connections to Ottoman Turkey, India, Egypt, Iran, Afghanistan, and China at the same time reveal a discrete global narrative of cosmopolitanism and transnationality. The global team of scholars brings to light Japan's intellectual and political encounters with the peoples and cultures of Asia in particular: Turks and Persians, Hindus and Muslims of India, Mongolians, and the Uyghur of Inner Asia, and Muslims in China. Contributors include Ian Nish, Christopher Szpilman, Sven Saaler, Selcuk Esenbel, Li Narangoa, Komatsu Hisao, Brij Tankha, Erdal K. Kyalcın, A. Merthan Dindar, Katayama Akio, Miyuki Aoki, Girardelli, Klaus R. Hohn, Mehmet İmez Banu Kaygusuz, Ö. Baykara, and Sat. Masako.

Topographies of Japanese Modernism Seiji M. Lippit, 2002. What happens when a critique of modernity, a revolt against the traditions of the Western world, is situated within a non-European context where the concept of the modern has been inevitably tied to the image of the West? Seiji M. Lippit offers the first comprehensive study in English of Japanese modernist fiction of the 1920s and 1930s. Through close readings of four leading figures of this movement—Akutagawa, Yokomitsu, Kawabata, and Hayashi—Lippit aims to establish a theoretical and historical framework for the analysis of Japanese modernism. The 1920s and 1930s witnessed a general sense of crisis surrounding the institution of literature, marked by both the radical politicization of literary practice and the explosion of new forms of cultural production represented by mass culture. Against this backdrop, this study traces the heterogeneous literary topographies of modernist writings. Through an engagement with questions of representation, subjectivity, and ideology, it situates the disintegration of literary form in these texts within the writers' exploration of the fluid borderlines of Japanese modernity.

Playing in the Shadows William H. Bridges, 2020-02-10. Playing in the Shadows considers the literature engendered by postwar Japanese authors' robust cultural exchanges with African Americans and African American literature. The Allied Occupation brought an influx of African American soldiers and culture to Japan, which catalyzed the writing of black characters into postwar Japanese literature. This same influx fostered the creation of organizations such as the Kokujin kenkyū no kai (The Japanese Association for Negro Studies) and literary endeavors such as the Kokujin bungaku zenshū (The Complete Anthology of Black Literature). This rich milieu sparked Japanese authors Nakagami Kenji and Ōe Kenzaburō to take a notable interest in reading, interpreting, critiquing, and ultimately incorporating the tropes and techniques of African American literature and jazz performance into their own literary works. Such incorporation leads to literary works that are black not by virtue of their representations of black characters but due to their investment in the possibility of technically and intertextually black Japanese literature. Will Bridges argues that these fictions of race provide visions of the way that postwar Japanese authors reimagine the ascription of race to bodies as they bodies of literature the body politic or the human body itself      The Search for Authenticity in Modern Japanese Literature. ,

East Meets West Reiko Aiura,J. U.
