An Ethnography of Fragrance Dinah Jung, 2022-06-08 The perfumery arts in Asia have traditionally been presented as exotic or in recent decades mainly ignored The ethnographic report in hand recalibrates the character and meaning of perfumery in the Islamic world illustrated by the local example of Adan La j By retelling the stories which have become associated with specific fragrances there the author simultaneously introduces the reader to the history and culture of Islam and the southern edge of Yemen The cultural exchange along the Indian Ocean Rim and within the colonial empires supported the spread and refinement of aromatics The result is a new and fascinating portrayal and explanation of perfumery in general as well as of its tradition and special features in West Asia up to recent times The Animal Names of the Arab Ancestors William C. Young, 2024-02-06 In the Arab world people belong to kinship groups lineages and tribes Many lineages are named after animals birds and plants Why This survey evaluates five old explanations totemism emulation of predatory animals ancestor eponymy nicknaming and Bedouin proximity to nature It suggests a new hypothesis Bedouin tribes use animal names to obscure their internal cleavages Such tribes wax and wane as they attract and lose allies and clients they include attached elements as well as actual kin To prevent outsiders from spotting attached groups Bedouin tribes scatter non human names across their segments making it difficult to link any segment with a human ancestor Young s argument contributes to theories of tribal organization Arab identity onomastics and Near Eastern kinship Remaking the Modern Farha Ghannam, 2002-09-19 In an effort to restyle Cairo into a global capital that would meet the demands of tourists and investors and to achieve President Anwar Sadat's goal to modernize the housing conditions of the urban poor the Egyptian government relocated residents from what was deemed valuable real estate in downtown Cairo to public housing on the outskirts of the city Based on more than two years of ethnographic fieldwork among five thousand working class families in the neighborhood of al Zawyia al Hamra this study explores how these displaced residents have dealt with the stigma of public housing the loss of their established community networks and the diversity of the population in the new location Until now few anthropologists have delivered detailed case studies on this recent phenomenon Ghannam fills this gap in scholarship with an illuminating analysis of urban engineering of populations in Cairo Drawing on theories of practice the study traces the various tactics and strategies employed by members of the relocated group to appropriate and transform the state's understanding of modernity and hegemonic construction of space Informed by recent theories of globalization Ghannam also shows how the growing importance of religious identity is but one of many contradictory ways that global trajectories mold the identities of the relocated residents Remaking the Modern is a revealing ethnography of a working class community's struggle to appropriate modern facilities and confront the alienation and the dislocation brought on by national policies and the quest to globalize Cairo

The Influence of Translation on the Arabic Language Mohamed Siddig Abdalla, 2018-10-19 This book explores the influence of translation on the Arabic language with particular emphasis on the translation of English idioms by journalists working at Arabic satellite TV stations using a mixed method approach quantitative and qualitative It begins from a belief that the impact of broadcast media on Arabic speakers is more instant wider and farther reaching than that caused or triggered by any other branch of mass media as not all features of television appear in other media The book focuses on idioms because of the difficulties associated with translating them and also because the literature review revealed inadequacy in understanding this intriguing part of the development of the Arabic language In contrast to other similar titles the book examines the possible factors causing journalists to resort to idiom literalisation including those relating to demographic characteristics The main significance of this book is that it has practical implications for its potential audience both practitioners and professional peers It provides information to enable media translators and lexicographers to become more sensitive towards the logico semantic relationships present in idiomatic expressions and to improve their application of idiomatic expressions in their translations Overall the results presented here will serve to guide media translators and lexicographers choice in the usage of idioms to produce better quality translations and dictionaries This insight is important not only to translators and lexicographers but also to language teachers and students of translation Pedagogically the findings of the current book will encourage translation teachers to reconsider their strategies for teaching English idioms Students of translation and English language learners in general will also benefit from the results of this book

Africans and Native Americans Jack D. Forbes, 1993-03-01 Jack D Forbes's monumental Africans and Native Americans has become a canonical text in the study of relations between the two groups Forbes explores key issues relating to the evolution of racial terminology and European colonialists perceptions of color analyzing the development of color classification systems and the specific evolution of key terms such as black mulatto and mestizo terms that no longer carry their original meanings Forbes also presents strong evidence that Native American and African contacts began in Europe Africa and the Caribbean

 Robert De Beaugrande, Abdulla Shunnaq, Mohamed Helmy Heliel, 1994 The papers collected in this volume are a selection of papers presented at a conference on Language and Translation Irbid Jordan 1992 In their revised form they offer comparisons between Western and Arabic language usage and transfer The articles bring together linguistic and cultural aspects in translation in a functional discourse framework set out in Part One Theory Culture Ideology Part Two addresses aspects for comparisons among translations and their cultural contexts equivalence stylistics and paragraphing Part Three features Arabic English language contact specifically in technical writing the media and academia Part Four deals with problems in lexicography and grammar terminology verb particle combinations and semantic diversity of radical doubling forms and includes a proposal for a new approach to English Arabic dictionaries Part Five turns to issues of interest to language teachers with practical proposals and demonstrations Part Six deals with geopolitical factors linking the West and Middle East focusing on equality in communication and exchange of information

Dictionnaires , Discovering Dune
 Dominic J. Nardi, N. Trevor Brierly, 2022-08-01 Frank Herbert's Dune is one of the most well known science fiction novels of all time and it is often revered alongside time honored classics like The Lord of the Rings Unlike Tolkien's work the Dune series has received remarkably little academic attention This collection includes fourteen new essays from various academic disciplines including philosophy political science disability studies Islamic theology environmental studies and Byzantine history that examine all six of Herbert's Dune books As a compendium it asserts that a multidisciplinary approach to the texts can lead to fresh discoveries Also included in this collection are an introduction by Tim O Reilly who authored one of the first critical appraisals of Herbert's writings in 1981 and a comprehensive bibliography of essential primary and secondary sources

Translation across Time and Space Wafa Abu Hatab, 2017-01-06 This book investigates several aspects of translation including literary political legal and machine translation and it covers a diversity of languages including Arabic English French and Greek With the whole world becoming a global village translation has acquired a remarkable dynamicity that encapsulates time and space bridging gaps between cultures despite all geographical boundaries Contributions to this collection cross various spaces including Jordan Greece Egypt Malaysia Romania and the United Arab Emirates This volume provides researchers interested in translation studies with detailed insight into translation as a product and a process The pedagogical implications of some of the chapters are expected to trigger future work on translators training in all types of translation
