Basic Income Grant For South Africa:

A Basic Income Grant for South Africa Guy Standing, Michael Samson, 2003 This book provides a critical analysis of the feasibility and impact of a universal basic income grant for South Africans which has been discussed extensively in parliament and the media for the past two years The authors assess how comprehensive social security reform including a universal grant will impact on the severe inequality in the country and promote economic growth and employment Their research reveals that it is affordable and they argue that it would reduce the criminality that is associated with poverty and inequality The implications for women and children and for the black majority would be considerable At the Presidential Jobs Summit in 1998 COSATU negotiated an agreement with the government to investigate a universal social grant for all South Africans the Basic Income Grant Government policy makers civil society stakeholders and South African and international thinkers recognised the merit of addressing the problem of poverty directly and efficiently In March 2002 the South African government's Committee of Inquiry into Comprehensive Social Security completed its evaluation of policy options for addressing the severe levels of poverty afflicting the country Accepting the findings of research commissioned from the Economic Policy Research Institute the Committee's report stated that the Basic Income Grant has the potential more than any other possible social protection intervention to reduce poverty and promote human development and sustainable livelihoods This book provides an accessible collection of the current research on the issue with chapters by both proponents and critics of the Basic Income Grant Some of the issues discussed include How can the grant be financed In what ways will the grant promote job creation economic growth and social development And will the government demonstrate the political will to implement what is likely to be the single most effective policy for reducing poverty and eradicating destitution

Universal Basic Income in Historical Perspective

Peter Sloman, Daniel Zamora Vargas, Pedro Ramos Pinto, 2021-11-19 This new edited collection brings together historians and social scientists to engage with the global history of Universal Basic Income UBI and offer historically rich perspectives on contemporary debates about the future of work In particular the book goes beyond a genealogy of a seemingly utopian idea to explore how the meaning and reception of basic income proposals has changed over time The study of UBI provides a prism through which we can understand how different intellectual traditions political agents and policy problems have opened up space for new thinking about work and welfare at critical moments Contributions range broadly across time and space from Milton Friedman and the debate over guaranteed income in the post war United States to the emergence of the European basic income movement in the 1980s and the politics of cash transfers in contemporary South Africa Taken together these chapters address comparative questions why do proposals for a guaranteed minimum income emerge at some times and recede into the background in others What kinds of problems is basic income designed to solve and how have policy proposals been shaped by changing attitudes to gender roles and the boundaries of social citizenship What role have transnational networks played in carrying UBI proposals between the global north and the global south and how does the politics of basic income vary between these contexts In short the book builds on a growing body of scholarship on UBI and lays the groundwork for a much richer understanding of the history of this radical proposal Chapter 3 is available open

Globally small and medium enterprises SME entrepreneurs were hit hard by the Covid 19 pandemic and subsequent measures such as lockdowns and market closures Africa was no exception Entrepreneurial intentions and activities were expected to have a broad downturn with established entrepreneurs being forced to downsize or quit their businesses while fewer novel entrepreneurs entered the market and started their own companies At the same time entrepreneurship is considered one of the few viable options to ensure an income during uncertain economic times Furthermore the Covid 19 crisis was said to drive innovation and technological advancements globally and perhaps even more so in Africa due to its young demographic This edited volume includes insights gathered during the 2021 NVAS Africa Day which had the theme entrepreneurial responses to Covid 19 in Africa This volume shines a light on two broader themes entrepreneurial intentions and entrepreneurial resilience in Africa in times of Covid 19 The conference was organized by NVAS Nederlandse Vereniging voor Afrikastudies and the African Studies Centre of Leiden University The first two chapters consider whether the pandemic and its broader consequences increase entrepreneurial intentions Is entrepreneurship a pathway out of the crisis for individuals providing an income and financial stability in a stressed labour market Or have individuals turned away from entrepreneurship due to the risk and a lack of start up funds and subsequent investments The final two chapters consider how the Covid 19 pandemic spurred entrepreneurial resilience and innovation in terms of new products markets and strategies Together these studies provide a cross sectional and cross methodological anthology of entrepreneurial responses to Covid 19 in Africa With contributions from Neema Komba Chanyoung Park Lotte Marie Brouwer Magnus Godvik Ekeland Hana Benchrifa Steven Kator Iorfa and Maud van Merri nboer

Class, Race, and Inequality in South Africa Jeremy

Seekings, Nicoli Natrass, 2008-10-01 The distribution of incomes in South Africa in 2004 ten years after the transition to democracy was probably more unequal than it had been under apartheid In this book Jeremy Seekings and Nicoli Natrass explain why this is so offering a detailed and comprehensive analysis of inequality in South Africa from the midtwentieth century to the early twenty first century They show that the basis of inequality shifted in the last decades of the twentieth century from race to class Formal deracialization of public policy did not reduce the actual disadvantages experienced by the poor nor the advantages of the rich The fundamental continuity in patterns of advantage and disadvantage resulted from underlying continuities in public policy or what Seekings and Natrass call the distributional regime The post apartheid distributional regime continues to divide South Africans into insiders and outsiders The insiders now increasingly multiracial enjoy good access to well paid skilled jobs the outsiders lack skills and employment
