The fourth volume of this series provides in-depth discussions of some newly developed theories and techniques concerning computer language level augmentation, time sharing systems, text editing systems, grammars and automata, and error correcting codes in computer arithmetic. Some specific ways of augmenting the machine language level are examined. The problem of information organization, storage, search, and retrieval in a computer is studied. The introduction of higher level languages has stimulated widespread applications of computers. Formal language theory has been recognized as a topic of fundamental importance in the study of information systems science. In Chapter 2 M. A. Harrison examines the phrase structure grammars, the right linear grammars, the context free grammars, the LR_k grammars, and the context sensitive grammars. The author discusses the relations between mathematical models of computers and a family of formal languages.
