Everaert, 2013 Scholars have long been captivated by the parallels between birdsong and human speech and language In this book leading scholars draw on the latest research to explore what birdsong can tell us about the biology of human speech and language and the consequences for evolutionary biology They examine the cognitive and neural similarities between birdsong learning and speech and language acquisition considering vocal imitation auditory learning an early vocalization phase babbling the structural properties of birdsong and human language and the striking similarities between the neural organization of learning and vocal production in birdsong and human speech After outlining the basic issues involved in the study of both language and evolution the contributors compare birdsong and language in terms of acquisition recursion and core structural properties and then examine the neurobiology of song and speech genomic factors and the emergence and evolution of language

Unlocking Speaking and Listening Pamela Hodson,2011-10-07 Speaking and listening are key elements of the primary English National Curriculum they are also fundamental to children s language development and learning The need for teachers to develop children s talk in its own right and also to use talk as a means of learning is central to effective primary practice yet it is an area in which teachers often have little confidence The contributors offer creative and practical advice on teaching speaking and listening from the early years through Key Stages 1 and 2 underpinned by theory into the approach from publisher description
