Curriculum-Based Assessment for Instructional Design Matthew K. Burns,David C. Parker,2014-04-02 In Curriculum based Assessment for Instructional Design Burns and Parker described a number of authentic research based strategies and tools for assessing the student's prior knowledge, existing skill level, and preferred mode of learning in order to maximize the instructional process. Indeed, in this book Burns and Parker have developed a natural and practical extension of a conceptual format that was originally called simply curriculum-based assessment. The book provides much needed clarification of the several terms that have been used over the past three decades and it provides hands-on application of the instructional principles involved. Comprehensive Handbook of Psychological Assessment, Volume 1 Gerald Goldstein, Sue R. Beers, 2004-04-02 In one volume the leading researchers in intelligence and neuropsychological assessment interpret the range of issues related to intellectual and neuropsychological tests including test development and psychometrics, clinical applications, ethical and legal concerns, use with diverse populations, computerization, and the latest research. Clinicians and researchers who use these instruments will find this volume invaluable as it contains the most comprehensive and up-to-date information available on this important aspect of practice. Structured Literacy Planner Louise

Spear-Swerling, 2024-03-29 This book describes a set of explicit approaches to teaching reading that have become known as Structured Literacy and that are especially effective for struggling readers. Chapter 1 explains in detail the two main themes involving Structured Literacy and poor reader profiles and why they are important to successful teaching of poor readers. Chapter 2 describes the structure of English at multiple levels: words, sentences, and longer discourse, a grasp of which is essential for SL teaching of both word reading and comprehension. Chapter 3 focuses on assessment of poor readers, specifically how to determine poor reader profiles and target interventions properly for individual students as well as how to use diagnostic assessments to further identify specific skills to address in intervention. Chapters 4 and 5 focus on students with a profile of Specific Word Recognition Difficulties, that is, difficulties specific to word reading. Chapters 6 and 7 address students with a profile of Specific Reading Comprehension Difficulties, which involves students who have poor reading comprehension despite good word reading. The topic of Chapters 8 and 9 involves students with a profile of Mixed Reading Difficulties, who have difficulties both in word reading and language comprehension. Teaching Writing as a Second Language Alice Horning, 1987 Addressing basic writing not only as a practical problem and humane responsibility but also as a challenging area for research and theorizing, this book reviews, interprets, and applies the growing body of work in second language acquisition. Chapter 1 presents 6 hypotheses constituting an attempt to develop a cohesive theory of writing acquisition that incorporates the redundancy of language and facilitates the process of language acquisition. The following chapters explore this theory in detail to serve as a basis for experimental confirmation. Chapters 2 and 3 on spoken and written language and redundancy provide the theoretical basis for the argument that academic discourse is a separate linguistic system characterized by particular psycholinguistic features. Chapters 4 and 5 present a detailed analysis of the behavior of basic writers with respect to written form, reviewing both pertinent second language theory about learners' errors and a case study of one writer. Chapters 6 and 7 discuss the relevant affective factors analyzed in second language acquisition theory and detail Stephen Krashen's recent proposals for a comprehensive theory of second language acquisition. The final chapter reviews the entire theory, summarizes the evidence, and outlines the agenda for further research. JD

Current Index to Journals in Education, 2000 A Program Development Handbook for the Holistic Assessment of Writing Norbert Elliot, Maximino Plata, Paul F. Zelhart, 1990 This book is a major breakthrough for developers of writing assessment programs who must certify the writing competency of undergraduate students. Legislators and accreditation boards across the nation have called for and implemented large scale projects to measure educational outcomes. This single source provides comprehensive information on the history, underlying concepts, and process of conducting a large scale writing assessment program at a specific institution of higher education. The handbook opens with an analysis of the rationale for the assessment of writing during the junior year of the undergraduate curriculum. The authors then turn to a case study of the success of their own institutional wide assessment program. A history is provided of 20th century writing assessment practices as well. Attention is given to defining levels of literacy. After describing an assessment process model, discussion turns to the design of questions, the administration of the assessment, the rating of papers, and the statistical analysis of data. Attention is also given to the design of a course for those who are unsuccessful on the assessment. The study closes with directions for further research and over 200 references in the bibliography.

Today's Education, 1982 Linguistics and Language Behavior Abstracts, 2008 Reading for Understanding, Grade 2 Paula Corbett, 1999-01-15 This book will improve students' skills in the areas of sequencing, recognizing details, finding the main idea, character analysis, drawing conclusions, predicting outcomes, recognizing cause and effect, evaluating the text, inferencing, and following directions. Each page features stories of children the same ages as your students facing situations that your students might face. Your students will love learning to read effectively with this great book.
