Alien Stars:

Alien Seas Michael Carroll, Rosaly Lopes, 2013-07-19 Oceans were long thought to exist in all corners of the Solar System from carbonated seas percolating beneath the clouds of Venus to features on the Moon's surface given names such as the Bay of Rainbows and the Ocean of Storms. With the advent of modern telescopes and spacecraft exploration these ancient concepts of planetary seas have for the most part evaporated. But they have been replaced by the reality of something even more exotic. For example, although it is still uncertain whether Mars ever had actual oceans, it now seems that a web of waterways did indeed at one time spread across its surface. The water in many places in our Solar System is a poisoned brew mixed with ammonia or methane. Even that found on Jupiter's watery satellite Europa is believed similar to battery acid. Beyond the Galilean satellites may lie even more alien oceans. Saturn's planet-sized moon Titan seems to be subject to methane or ethane rainfall. This creates methane pools that in turn become vast lakes and perhaps seasonal oceans. Titan has other seas in a sense as large shifting areas of sand covering vast plains have been discovered. Mars also has these sand seas and Venus may as well along with oceans of frozen lava. Do super-chilled concoctions of ammonia, liquid nitrogen, and water percolate beneath the surfaces of Enceladus and Triton? For now we can only guess at the possibilities. Alien Seas serves up part history, part current research, and part theory as it offers a rich buffet of seas on other worlds. It is organized by location and by the material of which various oceans consist, with guest authors penning specific chapters. Each chapter features new original art depicting alien seas as well as the latest ground-based and spacecraft images. Original diagrams present details of planetary oceans and related processes.

The Alien's Secret Don Sealey, 2025-02-18 In a distant galaxy the inhabitants of the dying planet Elon face a desperate fight for survival. General Seth Walker leads a group of rebels seeking freedom while the tyrannical Valerion is driven by a hunger for power and vengeance. As the planet nears its fiery end, both factions embark on a perilous journey into the unknown. Amid treacherous enemies, unexpected alliances, and mysterious alien forces, Walker and his crew navigate a hostile universe filled with danger and intrigue. Along the way they encounter profound truths about the nature of life, faith, and the cosmic struggle between good and evil. Their journey becomes more than a fight for survival; it is a search for purpose and a place to call home. This is a tale of resilience, redemption, and the enduring hope that shines even in the darkest corners of the universe.

Alternating Narratives in Fiction for Young Readers Perry Nodelman, 2017-04-17 This book is about the implications of novels for young readers that tell their stories by alternating between different narrative lines focused on different characters. It asks if you make sense of fiction by identifying with one main character, how do you handle two or more of them? Do novels with alternating narratives diverge from longstanding conventions and represent a significant change in literature for young readers? If not, how do these novels manage to operate within the parameters of those conventions? This book considers answers to these questions by means of a series of close readings that explore the structural, educational, and ideological implications of a variety of American, British, Canadian, and

Australian novels for children and for young adults      Under Alien Stars ,      Godshome Robert Sheckley,2025-09-23
