Althaus, 2003-09-08 Since so few people appear knowledgeable about public affairs one might question whether collective policy preferences revealed in opinion surveys accurately convey the distribution of voices and interests in a society This study the first comprehensive treatment of the relationship between knowledge representation and political equality in opinion surveys suggests some surprising answers Knowledge does matter and the way it is distributed in society can cause collective preferences to reflect disproportionately the opinions of some groups more than others Sometimes collective preferences seem to represent something like the will of the people but frequently they do not Sometimes they rigidly enforce political equality in the expression of political viewpoints but often they do not The primary culprit is not any inherent shortcoming in the methods of survey research Rather it is the limited degree of knowledge held by ordinary citizens about public affairs Accounting for these factors can help survey researchers journalists politicians and concerned citizens better appreciate the pitfalls and possibilities for using opinion polls to represent the people s voice Testimony Taken by the Joint Select Committee to Inquire into the Condition of Affairs North Carolina Anonymous,2023-03-13 Reprint of the original first published in 1872 The publishing house Anatiposi publishes historical books as reprints Due to their age these books may have missing pages or inferior quality Our aim is to preserve these books and make them available to the public so that they do not get lost Testimony Taken by the Joint Select Committee to Inquire Into the Condition of Affairs in the Late Insurrectionary States United States.
