Popular Music And Television In Britain Ian Inglis, 2016-04-22 Listening to popular music and watching television have become the two most common activities for postwar generations in Britain From the experiences of programmes like Oh Boy and Juke Box Jury to the introduction of 24 hour music video channels the number and variety of television outputs that consistently make use of popular music and the importance of the small screen as a principal point of contact between audiences and performers are familiar components of contemporary media operation Yet there have been few attempts to examine the two activities in tandem to chart their parallel evolution to explore the associations that unite them or to consider the increasingly frequent ways in which the production and consumption of TV and music are linked in theory and in practice This volume provides an invaluable critical analysis of these and other topics in newly written contributions from some of Britain's leading scholars in the disciplines of television and or popular music studies Through a concentration on four main areas in which TV organises and presents popular music history and heritage

The Rock Canon CarysWyn Jones,2017-07-05 Canons are central to our understanding of our culture and yet in the last thirty years there has been much conflict and uncertainty created by the idea of the canon In essence the canon comprises the works and artists that are widely accepted to be the greatest in their field Yet such an apparently simple construct embodies a complicated web of values and mechanisms Canons are also inherently elitist however Carys Wyn Jones here explores the emerging reflections of values terms and mechanisms from the canons of Western literature and classical music in the reception of rock music Jones examines the concept of the canon as theorized by scholars in the fields of literary criticism and musicology before moving on to search for these canonical facets in the reception of rock music as represented by ten albums Bob Dylan's Highway 61 Revisited The Beach Boys Pet Sounds The Beatles Revolver The Velvet Underground's The Velvet Underground Nico Van Morrison's Astral Weeks Marvin Gaye's What's Going On The Rolling Stones Exile on Main St Patti Smith's Horses The Sex Pistols Never Mind the Bollocks Here's the Sex Pistols and Nirvana's Nevermind Jones concludes that in the reception of rock music we are not only trying to organize the past but also mediate the present and any canon of rock music must now negotiate a far more pluralized culture and possibly accept a greater degree of change than has been evident in the canons of literature and classical music in the last two centuries
