The Bird-Friendly City Timothy Beatley,2020-11-05 How does a bird experience a city A backyard A park As the world has become more urban noisier from increased traffic and brighter from streetlights and office buildings it has also become more dangerous for countless species of birds Warblers become disoriented by nighttime lights and collide with buildings Ground feeding sparrows fall prey to feral cats Hawks and other birds of prey are sickened by rat poison These name just a few of the myriad hazards How do our cities need to change in order to reduce the threats often created unintentionally that have resulted in nearly three billion birds lost in North America alone since the 1970s In The Bird Friendly City Timothy Beatley a longtime advocate for intertwining the built and natural environments takes readers on a global tour of cities that are reinventing the status quo with birds in mind. Efforts span a fascinating breadth of approaches: public education, urban planning, and design; habitat restoration; architecture; art; civil disobedience; and more. Beatley shares empowering examples including advocates for catios, enclosed outdoor spaces that allow cats to enjoy backyards without being able to catch birds; a public relations campaign for vultures; and innovations in building design that balance aesthetics with preventing bird strikes. Through these changes and the others Beatley describes, it is possible to make our urban environments more welcoming to many bird species. Readers will come away motivated to implement and advocate for bird-friendly changes with inspiring examples to draw from. Whether birds are migrating and need a temporary shelter or are taking up permanent residence in a backyard when the environment is safer for birds, humans are happier as well.
