Of Diaries:

On Diary Philippe Lejeune, 2009-04-30 On Diary is the second collection in English of the groundbreaking and profoundly influential work of one of the best known and provocative theorists of autobiography and diary. Ranging from the diary's historical origins to its pervasive presence on the Internet from the spiritual journey of the sixteenth century to the diary of Anne Frank and from the materials and methods of diary writing to the question of how diaries end these essays display Philippe Lejeune's expertise, eloquence, passion and humor as a commentator on the functions, practices and significance of keeping or reading a diary. Lejeune is a leading European critic and theorist of diary and autobiography. His landmark essay The Autobiographical Pact has shaped life writing studies for more than thirty years and his many books and essays have repeatedly opened up new vistas for scholarship. As Michael Riffaterre notes, Lejeune's work on autobiography is the most original, powerful, effective approach to a difficult subject. His style is very personal, lively. It grabs the reader as scholarship rarely does. Lejeune's erudition and methodology are impeccable. Two substantial introductory essays by Jeremy Popkin and Julie Rak place Lejeune's work within its critical and theoretical traditions and comment on his central importance within the fields of life writing, literary genetic studies and cultural studies.

Diaries of Girls and Women Suzanne L.

Bunkers, 2001-05-30 Diaries of Girls and Women captures and preserves the diverse lives of forty seven girls and women who lived in Minnesota, Iowa and Wisconsin between 1837 and 1999: young schoolgirls, adolescents coming of age, newlywed wives, mothers, grieving the loss of children, teachers, nurses, elderly women, Luxembourgish immigrant nuns and women traveling abroad. A compelling work of living history, it brings together both diaries from historical society archives and diaries still in possession of the diarists or their descendants. Editor Suzanne L. Bunkers has selected these excerpts from more than 450 diaries she examined. Some diaries were kept only briefly; others through an entire lifetime; some diaries are the intensely private record of a life; others tell the story of an entire family and were meant to be saved and appreciated by future generations. By approaching diaries as historical documents, therapeutic tools and a form of literature, Bunkers offers readers insight into the self images of girls and women, the dynamics of families and communities and the kinds of contributions that girls and women have made past and present. As a representation of the girls and women of varied historical eras, locales, races and economic circumstances who settled and populated the Midwest, Diaries of Girls and Women adds texture and pattern to the fabric of American history.

Visualizing the Holocaust David Bathrick, Brad Prager, Michael David Richardson, 2008 Visual representations are an essential but highly contested means of understanding and remembering the Holocaust. Photographs taken in the camps in early 1945 provided proof of and visceral access to the atrocities. Later visual representations such as films, paintings and art installations attempted to represent this extreme trauma. While photographs from the camps and later aesthetic reconstructions differ in origin, they share goals and have raised similar concerns: the former are questioned not as to veracity but due to their potential inadequacy in portraying the magnitude of events; the latter are criticized on the grounds that the mediation they entail is unacceptable Some have even questioned any attempt to represent the Holocaust as inappropriate and dangerous to historical understanding This book explores the taboos that structure the production and reception of Holocaust images and the possibilities that result from the transgression of those taboos Essays consider the uses of various visual media aesthetic styles and genres in representations of the Holocaust the uses of perpetrator photography the role of trauma in memory aesthetic problems of mimesis and memory in the work of Lanzmann Celan and others and questions about mass cultural representations of the Holocaust David Bathrick is Emeritus Professor of German at Cornell University Brad Prager is Associate Professor of German at the University of Missouri and Michael D Richardson is Associate Professor of German at Ithaca College     Getting Intimate Linn Sandberg, 2011-04-08

This thesis focuses on the intersections of masculinity old age and sexuality from the perspectives of old men themselves how they understand and experience sex and sexuality in later life The study uses qualitative in depth interviews and body diaries an exploratory method that asked men write about their bodies in everyday life Twenty two men born between 1922 and 1942 participated in the study The aim of the thesis is two fold firstly to study sexual subjectivities of old men how old men articulate and make meaning around sexuality in later life Secondly the study aims to explore theoretically what a male body may become in relation to ageing in what ways the ageing male body could be a site for rethinking masculinity and the male body This aim was inspired by feminist theories in dialogue with the deleuzian concept becoming Similarly to gender age is understood to take shape and become intelligible in social and cultural contexts Furthermore the thesis stresses the significance of the specificities of the ageing body to the shaping of masculinity sexuality and subjectivity The body is therefore discussed as an open materiality beyond the binaries of culture and nature materiality This thesis discusses the concepts intimacy and touch as central to how old men's sexual subjectivities take shape allowing for alternative conceptualisations of sexuality beyond erection and intercourse Intimacy and touch are understood and discussed in several different ways By orienting themselves to touch and intimacy the old men emerged as more mature unselfish and with more serene sexual desires This also involved them distancing themselves from the younger man other men whom they perceived as more selfish inconsiderate and with stronger sexual desires Intimacy and touch could in this respect be understood as resources for shaping desirable heterosexual masculinity An orientation to intimacy and touch enabled old men to appear as neither asexual nor as dirty old men But the study also suggests that a turn to intimacy and touch may open up possibilities for rethinking and reconfiguring sexuality masculinity and the male body The ageing body then need not be understood as an obstacle but as an enabling site that provides opportunities for intimacy and touch Moreover the thesis presents affirmative old age as an alternative conceptualisation of old age beyond both the discourses of successful ageing and the discourses of old age as negativity and decline As a theory of difference and bodily specificity affirmative old age may be of interest for further feminist theorising     Research Methods for English Language Teachers Jo McDonough, Steven

McDonough,2014-05-12 This book offers a lively introduction to the research methods and techniques available to English language teachers who wish to investigate aspects of their own practice It covers qualitative and quantitative methodology and includes sections on observation introspection diary studies experiments interviews questionnaires numerical techniques and case study research Each method is illustrated with examples in language teaching contexts and techniques of data collection and analysis are introduced The authors focus particularly on research in the classroom on tests materials the effects of innovations and they discuss methods appropriate to research in various collaborative modes as well as by individuals A key feature of the book is an introduction to the debate surrounding different approaches to research with an evaluation of traditional research in relation to the paradigms associated with reflective practice and action research The book is ideal for teachers on initial training and post experience courses students on degree programmes in applied linguistics and TEFL and of course practising teachers with an interest in research methods in language teaching

Handbook of Developmental Research Methods Brett Laursen,Todd D. Little,Noel A. Card,2012-02-01 Appropriate for use in developmental research methods or analysis of change courses this is the first methods handbook specifically designed to meet the needs of those studying development Leading developmental methodologists present cutting edge analytic tools and describe how and when to use them in accessible nontechnical language They also provide valuable guidance for strengthening developmental research with designs that anticipate potential sources of bias Throughout the chapters research examples demonstrate the procedures in action and give readers a better understanding of how to match research questions to developmental methods The companion website www.guilford.com/laursen supplies data and program syntax files for many of the chapter examples   Lifescapes Jeremy Burchardt,2023-05-11 A compelling study of the influences that shape our responses to landscape through eight modern British lives   Dental Technician 1 & C. United States. Bureau of Naval Personnel,1972   Handbook for Conducting Research on Human Sexuality Michael W.

Wiederman,Bernard E. Whitley, Jr.,2012-12-06 Human sexuality researchers often find themselves faced with questions that entail conceptual methodological or ethical issues for which their professional training or prior experience may not have prepared them The goal of this handbook is to provide that guidance to students and professionals interested in the empirical study of human sexuality from behavioral and social scientific perspectives It provides practical and concrete advice about conducting human sexuality research and addresses issues inherent to both general social scientific and specific human sexuality research This comprehensive resource offers a unique multidisciplinary examination of the specific methodological issues inherent in conducting human sexuality research The methodological techniques and advances that are familiar to researchers trained in one discipline are often unfamiliar to researchers from other disciplines This book is intended to help enrich the communication between the various disciplines involved in human sexuality research Each of the 21 self standing chapters provides an expert overview of a particular area of research methodology from a variety of academic disciplines It addresses those issues unique to human sexuality research such as how to measure sexuality variables how to design studies recruit participants and collect data how to consider cultural and ethical issues and how to perform and interpret statistical analyses This book is intended as a reference tool for researchers and students interested in human sexuality from a variety of disciplines including psychology sociology family science health communication nursing medicine and anthropology
