Advanced Chinese reader John DeFrancis, Chia-yee Teng, Chih-sheng Yung, 1968 A sequel to Beginning Chinese Reader and Intermediate Chinese Reader this text the eleventh in a series produced under the auspices of Seton Hall University is closely correlated with the author's Advanced Chinese and Character Text for Advanced Chinese It contains 400 new characters some 3 000 compounds and about 20 000 characters of running text All compounds appear in illustrative sentences and in narrative or expository materials including adaptations of articles and stories by Chinese authors Supplementary lessons present reading material using the simplified characters adopted in mainland China A stroke order chart is provided for characters that students might find difficult to write In addition to a pinyin index there are three summary charts in which the characters are arranged by lesson by number of strokes and by radical A fourth chart contrasts regular and simplified characters a fifth chart shows the differences between two typefaces and a sixth chart presents variant forms of the same character This series has been supported by contract with the United States Office of Education Mr DeFrancis is professor of Chinese at the University of Hawaii Teaching and Learning Chinese as a Foreign Language Janet Zhiqun Xing, 2006-01-01 This book provides a research based account of how to teach and learn Chinese as a foreign language In addition to the discussion of relevant second foreign language research this volume gives detailed information on ways to develop a pedagogical model that is uniquely suited to teaching Chinese in five key areas pronunciation tones and pinyin characters and words sentences when and why different sentence structures are used discourse and pragmatic competence coherence and genre and cultural competence Specially written for Chinese language teachers student teachers and applied linguists this is the first book written in English that systematically addresses all major aspects involved in teaching and learning Chinese as a foreign language This book covers all the fundamental grammar elements in Chinese explains their functions in discourse and communication and explores different strategies for teaching and engaging students in learning the language Character text for advanced Chinese Institute of
