consequences and implications Sociology offers a knowledge base a number of useful analytic approaches and tools and unique theoretical perspectives that can be important aids to this task The Panel on New Directions in Social Demography Social Epidemiology and the Sociology of Aging was established in August 2010 under the auspices of the Committee on Population of the National Research Council to prepare a report that evaluates the recent contributions of social demography social epidemiology and sociology to the study of aging and seeks to identify promising new research in these fields Perspectives on the Future of the Sociology of Aging provides candid and critical comments that will assist the institution in making the final published volume as sound as possible and to ensure that the volume meets institutional standards for objectivity evidence and responsiveness to the study charge

Human Rights and Social Responsibility: A Reflection

Dr Gaurav Gaur, 2022-07-07 The book Human Rights and Social Responsibility A Reflection edited by Dr Gaurav Gaur is a significant contribution in the body of knowledge that helps in understanding the challenges of today's society The book touches upon the scope of human rights with respect to vulnerable sections of society like children adolescents women the elderly and contractual labour The collection of empirical and field studies on issues of mental health adoption environment governance drug abuse water sanitation helps in not only understanding the existing and emerging areas of concern but is also a reflection on how governmental non governmental and particularly social workers can come together to provide the sustainable solutions for these challenges Even in today's time some of us understand the discipline and essence of Social Work We sometimes interchangeably use the terms such as social work social service and social welfare without understanding the basic difference

Handbook of Sociology of Aging Richard A. Settersten, Jr., Jacqueline L.

Angel, 2011-05-11 The Handbook of Sociology of Aging is the most comprehensive engaging and up to date treatment of developments within the field over the past 30 years The volume represents an indispensable source of the freshest and highest standard scholarship for scholars policy makers and aging professionals alike The Handbook of Sociology of Aging contains 45 far reaching chapters authored by nearly 80 of the most renowned experts on the most pressing topics related to aging today With its recurring attention to the social forces that shape human aging and the social consequences and policy implications of it the contents will be of interest to everyone who cares about what aging means for individuals families and societies The chapters of the Handbook of Sociology of Aging illustrate the field's extraordinary breadth and depth which has never before been represented in a single volume Its contributions address topics that range from foundational matters such as classic and contemporary theories and methods to topics of longstanding and emergent interest such as social diversity and inequalities social relationships social institutions economies and governments social vulnerabilities public health and care arrangements The volume closes with a set of personal essays by senior scholars who share their experiences and hopes for the field and an essay by the editors that provides a roadmap for the decade ahead The Handbook of Sociology of Aging showcases the very best that sociology has to offer the study of human aging

Critical Clinical Social Work:

Counterstorying for Social Justice Catrina Brown, Judy E. MacDonald, 2020-05-29 This edited collection offers an original critical clinical approach to social work practice written by social work educators from the School of Social Work at Dalhousie University and their collaborators. It provides a Canadian perspective on the diverse issues social workers encounter in the field, highlighting the practical application of feminist, narrative, anti-racist, and postcolonial frameworks. With the aim of producing counterstories that participate in social resistance, this volume focuses on integrating critical theory with direct clinical practice. Through the use of case studies, the contributors tackle a range of substantive issues, including ethics, working with complex trauma, men's use of violence, substance use among women and girls, Indigenous social work praxis, critical child welfare approaches, counterstorying experiences of disability, and animal-informed social work practice.

Cross-cultural Communication and Aging in the United States Hana Noor Al-Deen, 2013-10-18 Recently, the communication discipline has devoted increasing energy toward the study of aging, yet most of the research has insufficiently addressed a crucial factor in communicative relationships: culture. Meanwhile, cross-cultural and intercultural communication has not adequately addressed the aging process. Combining three powerful elements—communication, aging, and culture—all of which have an increasingly profound impact on today's multicultural society, this book focuses on older Americans in various communicative contexts within the framework of their cultures. Composed of original research by experts in their respective fields, the book combines communication, aging, and culture for a unique examination of those elements in American society. Section 1 deals with perspectives in cross-cultural communication and aging. These perspectives both illustrate the issues that greatly affect the lives of our elders and suggest ways to improve their status. Section 2 showcases three American cultures: Hawaiian, Arab, and Mormon, illustrating how language, attitudes, and mentoring can serve as the links for maintaining cross-generational continuity in multicultural society. Section 3 demonstrates that many American organizations frequently contribute to the hardships that both internal elder customers (employees) and external elder customers (residents and patients) must endure. Section 4 incorporates popular culture and aging. It presents the role of selective popular media in portraying our elders. Because Americans rely heavily on the media, their mediated perceptions can have a profound impact on their attitudes toward the older population. Designed as a reader or supplementary text for college students in communication, gerontology, anthropology, sociology, and other related fields, this text can also be used by professionals in gerontological service areas, by libraries, and as a personal reference. It offers extensive appendices, figures, and tables for additional reference.
