Diversity and Aging Among Immigrant Seniors in Canada Douglas Durst, Michael MacLean, 2010-01-01 Historically Canada has been a nation of immigrants with 16 20% of its citizens being foreign born Most immigrant research addresses the issues of integration and adjustment of young and adult immigrants with little work on aging There are numerous books on immigrants and books on aging but there are few that have considered the topics of both diversity and aging Diversity and Aging among Immigrant Seniors in Canada breaks from that tradition and offers an eclectic collection of original research from among Canada's leading researchers on aging and immigrants Some researchers refer to this emerging field as Ethno gerontology There are two interesting groups of immigrant seniors those who entered Canada at over 65 years of age and those who aged in Canada Most Canadians are surprised to learn that the senior population of seniors has a higher percentage of immigrants 19 6% than the general population 13 7% As Canadians age the country's composition of immigrant seniors has also changed from mainly European to greater cultural and ethnic diversity from Africa and Asia This cultural and ethnic diversity has social health economic policy implications and impacts on programs and services delivered to seniors Diversity and Aging among Immigrant Seniors in Canada is divided into two main sections In Part 1 the chapters explore general and universal issues such as national trends and demographics theoretical orientations issues of culture and legal dimensions poverty and income and end of life care In Part 2 the chapters examine issues pertaining to specific ethnic groups For example there are chapters on the social well being of Chinese immigrants determinants of mental health for Iranian seniors family dynamics for aging Haitian elders and emerging issues for Punjabi families Diversity and Aging among Immigrant Seniors in Canada offers both breadth and depth to the topic of aging among immigrants and is a must read for social work and health care professionals students in health and social services policy and program planners and families of aging immigrants It is written in a language that crosses disciplines shedding professional jargon making it an informative and engaging read for professionals researchers and the general public Aging as a Social Process Barry D. Kulig, Allison M. Williams, 2011-12-06 Health research in Canada has mostly focused on urban areas often overlooking the unique issues faced by Canadians living in rural and remote areas This volume provides the first comprehensive overview of the state of rural health and health care in Canada from coast to coast and in northern communities Three themes are highlighted rural places matter to health rural places are unique and rural places are dynamic The contributors bring insights and methodologies from nursing social work geography epidemiology and sociology and from community based research to a full spectrum of topics health literacy rural health care delivery and training Aboriginal health web based services and their application rural palliative care and rural health research and policy Taken together these wide ranging and multifaceted explorations of the dynamic relationship between health and place offer researchers and policy makers students and practitioners a valuable resource for understanding the special ever changing needs of rural communities Insights in Aging and Public Health: 2022 Marcia G. Ory, Matthew Lee Smith, 2023-10-27 This collection is part of a recurrent series Insights in Aging and Public Health 2021 Our global society is changing Now in the third decade of the 21st Century the achievements made by scientists have led to major advancements in the fast growing field of Aging and Public Health As indicated by the United Nations Declaration of the Decade of Healthy Aging 2021 2030 there is global interest in understanding determinants of healthy aging and strategies to improve the lives of older people their families and the communities in which they live As such the field of public health and aging must constantly evolve and adapt alongside the ongoing changes in population growth and demographics social and physical environments and policy and other drivers of health related costs Further the indicators of risk and markers of success have assumed new meaning as new societal needs challenges Aging in Canadian Society Maureen Baker, 1988 Contesting Elder Abuse and Neglect Joan R. Harbison, 2016-12-23 The mistreatment of older people is categorized in many societies as elder abuse and neglect yet the concept has not been subjected to rigorous critical inquiry Instead it has most often represented the interests of professionals academics and governments while policy makers and researchers frequently overlook or disregard the complexity of issues that fall under this designation Contesting Elder Abuse and Neglect questions existing understandings about the mistreatment of older people It explores how and why the designation elder abuse and neglect came to be and shows how this term masks problems concerning the mistreatment of older people their place in society and how they see themselves Joan R Harbison and her colleagues expose how supposed solutions to the problem of abuse can take their toll on those people they were originally intended to protect The book is an important contribution to the literature that encourages new thinking about issues concerning the mistreatment of older people Cruel but Not Unusual Ramona Alaggia, Cathy Vine, 2013-05-21 Violence in families and intimate relationships affects a significant proportion of the population from very young children to the elderly with far reaching and often devastating consequences Cruel but Not Unusual draws on the expertise of scholars and practitioners to present readers with the latest research and thinking about the history conditions and impact of violence in these contexts For this new edition chapters have been updated to reflect changes in data and legislation New chapters include an examination of trauma from a neurobiological perspective a critical analysis of the gender symmetry debate a debate that questions the gendered nature of intimate violence and an essay on the history and evolution of the women's movement dedicated to addressing violence against women which advances theoretical developments that remind readers of the breadth of inclusivity that should be at the heart of working in this field Aging as a Social Process Barry D. McPherson, 2004 Aging as a Social Process Canadian Perspectices is the most comprehensive and up to date survey of the topic in Canada Employing a variety of theoretical and methodological approaches it explains why aging is not just a biological process but also a complex social one Each chaper has been rewritten and upadted to include 2001 Census data and this fourth edition includes even more made in Canada material than its predecessor
