Subcommittee on Health and the Environment, 1988 AIDS Issues: Cost and availability of AZT, AIDS and minorities, AIDS research and education United States. Congress. House. Committee on Energy and Commerce. Subcommittee on Health and the Environment, 1988 The Social Construction of AIDS Issues Suiming Pan, 2022-01-07 This book explores AIDS from a relatively macro perspective rather than concrete operational methods and focuses on the social construction of AIDS issues instead of its transmission level in the context of China First it begins with the theoretical analysis and the social significance of AIDS which is different from the simple conflict between different schools of thought Second it analyses the contest of various social powers in the process of AIDS construction and conclusion rather than making different explanations of policies Last but not least it elaborates on the central proposition i e the AIDS issue is a symbol of China's social restructuring process Only in an effort to advance such a process can we be more likely to find the best problem solving mode rather than clamouring repeatedly or giving countermeasures alone

Developing Effective Policies for HIV/AIDS Education practice in Sub Saharan Africa: The Case of Urban Schools of Malawi: A synergy of pupils needs, policies and practice Paul Makocho, 2014-11 HIV AIDS has been named the Sub

Saharan disease In countries that have achieved significant declines in HIV prevalence young people have registered the biggest behavioural changes It means they hold the keys not only to our understanding of the epidemic but more importantly to the efforts required to stem the tide of infections However the majority of young people are ignorant of how to prevent transmission have low compliance to condom use which is in some cases accentuated by misconceptions about HIV AIDS transmission and have insufficient knowledge regarding transmission and avoidance behaviours As such consensus on feasible preventive interventions target young people particularly those in schools It is on this premise that the book unlocks the key pillars in effective HIV AIDS education policies and practices The study has drawn upon the experiences of selected Urban Schools in Malawi to explore the needs of young people in classroom the extent to which the classroom practices respond to the needs and the factors influencing these using questionnaires interviews lesson observations and document analysis Malawi typically represents most Sub Saharan African countries in terms of challenges faced by education systems Given the similar cultural settings of the people of Sub Saharan Africa the findings and recommendations of the study generalises to the education systems of Sub Saharan Africa to a greater extent The book shows the need for open discussion climates on HIV AIDS issues despite a conservative cultural and religious adult world that is not open It has also identified a need for explicit and accurate knowledge on HIV AIDS issues opportunities to acquire behavioural skills for HIV prevention and involvement of external speakers in classroom HIV AIDS education Current classroom practice does not address the pupils needs adequately Factors influencing this can be linked to lack of policies responsive to culture and religion ineffective and inadequate teaching policy guidelines and lack of a policy prioritising HIV AIDS education The findings suggest that in future effective HIV AIDS Education needs to be informed by the pupils needs To address these needs support from the wider society and related policies coupled with appropriate management and classroom practice will be required The book is therefore an indispensable tool for education systems in Sub Saharan Africa It provides an effective model for the development of effective HIV AIDS policies and practices in HIV AIDS education curricula A New Look at Thai AIDS

Graham Fordham,2005 Based on original research in Northern Thailand and drawing on the breadth of indigenous Thai language materials this study offers a sustained and powerful criticism of the normative modeling of the Thai AIDS epidemic in order to elicit new and more effective points of intervention HIV/AIDS and the Social Consequences of Untamed

Biomedicine Graham Fordham,2014-11-13 Drawing on the case of HIV AIDS in Thailand this book examines how anthropological and other interpretative social science research has been utilized in modeling the AIDS epidemic and in the design and implementation of interventions It argues that much social science research has been complicit with the forces that generated the epidemic and with the social control agendas of the state and that as such it has increased the weight of structural violence bearing upon the afflicted The book also questions claims of Thai AIDS control success arguing that these can only be made at the cost of excluding categories such as intravenous drug users the incarcerated and homosexuals who continue to experience extraordinarily high levels of levels of HIV infection Considered deviant and undeserving these persons have deliberately been excluded from harm reduction programs Overall this work argues for the untapped potential of anthropological research in the health field a confident anthropology rooted in ethnography and a critical reflexivity Crucially it argues that in context of interdisciplinary collaborations anthropological research must refuse relegation to the status of an adjunct discipline and must be free epistemologically and methodologically from the universalizing assumptions and practices of biomedicine HIV Plus, 2000-06 HIV Plus offers the latest stories on research economics and treatment

The magazine raises awareness of HIV related cultural and policy developments in the United States and throughout the world South African National HIV Prevalence, HIV Incidence, Behaviour and Communication Survey, 2005 Olive Shisana, 2005 A follow up to the Nelson Mandela Foundation's 2002 national household survey of HIV AIDS prevalence in South Africa this 2005 report seeks to provide further understanding of the HIV pandemic Using data that tested for HIV incidence rather than just using mortality statistics this study looks at which socio demographic groups are most vulnerable whether new policies have been successful in fighting the disease what exactly is being done by key players such as the government churches and other civil society organizations and how the spread of HIV can be reduced in South Africa

Handbook of Economic Evaluation of HIV Prevention Programs David R. Holtgrave, 1998-10-31 If resources for HIV prevention efforts were truly unlimited then this book would be entirely unnecessary In a world with limitless support for HIV prevention activities one would simply implement all effective or potentially effective programs without regard to expense We would do everything useful to prevent the further spread of the virus that has already claimed hundreds of thousands of lives in the United States and millions of lives worldwide Unfortunately funding for HIV prevention programs is limited Even though the amount of available funding may seem quite large especially in the United States it is still fixed and not sufficient to meet all needs for such programs This was very well illustrated in the summer of 1997 when over 500 community based organizations applied for a combined total of 18 million of HIV prevention funding from the U S Centers for Disease Control and Prevention CDC Less than one fifth of these organizations received support via this funding mechanism Hence although 18 million may seem like a large amount of money at first blush it is not enough to meet all of the prevention needs that could be addressed by these community based organizations Social Organizations and the Authoritarian

State in China Timothy Hildebrandt, 2013-02-18 An analysis of the emergence of NGOs across China in three different issue areas environmental protection HIV AIDS prevention and gay and lesbian rights Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, Education, and Related Agencies Appropriations for 1990 United States.
