Aging And Income Programs And Prospects For The Elderly:

A Generation of Change Jacob S. Siegel, 1993-02-18 A Generation of Change is an exceptional study of the nation's elderly a population that has undergone profound changes in the years since World War II As modern medicine extends the average life span and the baby boom generation begins to approach middle age the number of older Americans is expected to more than double in the next century Currently 75 percent of U S health care expenditures go toward the elderly But as national trends toward early retirement and low birthrate continue an aging American population could face crises in meeting their financial and physical needs According to Jacob S Siegel in A Generation of Change astute public planning must be informed by an understanding of the demographic social and economic characteristics of the older population as it is today and as it will be in the coming years Siegel employs census and survey data from 1950 through the mid 1980s to describe a population constantly shifting in its ethnic and gender composition geographic distribution marital and living arrangements health employment and economic status Surprisingly there is tremendous disparity in the quality of life among the elderly Although their average poverty rate is below that of the general population there are dramatic levels of poverty among older women who are far more likely than men to live alone or in institutions As the elderly progress from the young old to the aged old those over 85 sharp differences emerge as income and employment decrease and degrees of chronic illness increase In addition residential location influences the quality of health care and public assistance available to the elderly an effect that may account for the marked migration of older people to Florida and Arizona Siegel analyzes the full range of characteristics for this heterogeneous population and through comparisons with other age groups as well as with the elderly of the previous decades portrays the crucial influence of social and economic conditions over the life course on the quality of later life With our elderly population growing more numerous and long lived accurate information about them is increasingly essential A Generation of Change will serve as a valuable resource for policymakers seeking more effective solutions in critical areas such as housing long term health care and the funding of Social Security and retirement programs A Volume in the Russell Sage Foundation Census Series      Old Age Income Assurance: The aged population and retirement income programs ,1968

Pension Systems and Old-Age Income Support in East and Southeast Asia Donghyun Park, 2012-03-15 Old age income support will be one of the biggest social and economic challenges facing Asia in the twenty first century The growing spotlight on old age income support is largely due to exceptionally rapid population aging which is fundamentally reshaping Asia s demographic profile A young continent reaping the demographic dividend of a large youthful workforce is giving way to a greying continent where the ratio of retirees to workers is on the rise In contrast to industrialized countries most Asian countries do not yet have mature well functioning pension systems As a result they are ill prepared to provide economic security for the large number of retirees who loom on the region s horizon This book takes a close look at the pension systems of eight countries in East and Southeast Asia namely China Indonesia Korea Malaysia Philippines Singapore Thailand and Vietnam which encompass a wide range of income and development levels The book provides a comprehensive overview of pension systems in the eight countries including an in depth diagnosis to identify their major weaknesses and shortcomings On the basis of the diagnosis the book sets forth concrete and specific policy options for reforming Asia s pension systems Many policy options for reform are country specific For example a top priority in China is to extend the pension system to rural areas At the same time a number of reforms such as the need to extend coverage resonate across the entire region Appropriate reform will enable the region s pension systems to deliver affordable adequate and sustainable old age economic security

Ageing Populations in Post-Industrial Democracies Pieter

Vanhuyse,Achim Goerres,2013-06-17 Most advanced democracies are currently experiencing accelerated population ageing which fundamentally changes not just their demographic composition it can also be expected to have far reaching political and policy consequences This volume brings together an expert set of scholars from Europe and North America to investigate generational politics and public policies within an approach explicitly focusing on comparative political science This theoretically unified text examines changing electoral policy demands due to demographic ageing and features analysis of USA UK Japan Germany Italy and all major EU countries As the first sustained political science analysis of population ageing this monograph examines both sides of the debate It examines the actions of the state against the interests of a growing elderly voting bloc to safeguard fiscal viability and looks at highly topical responses such as pension cuts and increasing retirement age It also examines the rise of grey parties and asks what if anything makes such pensioner parties persist over time in the first ever analysis of the emergence of pensioner parties in Europe Ageing Populations in Post Industrial indexes      Active and Healthy Aging and Quality of Life: Interventions and Outlook for the Future, volume II Shekhar Chauhan, Petra Heidler, David Jean Simon, 2024-09-10 The continuous growth of older populations as a consequence of demographic changes is a huge global challenge The growing proportion of older adults not only burdens the healthcare system specifically in developing countries but also posits a challenge at the household level specifically in nuclear and one person households For societies as a whole to avoid costly and negative effects it is crucial to increase their knowledge of how to promote good health among older adults so that they can live longer and enjoy a better quality of life Active aging is the process of optimizing opportunities for health participation and security in order to enhance quality of life as people age An active and healthy life has remained one of the most important aspirations for all people both young and older adults alike This ambition has become a genuine possibility for many due to a rising life expectancy among people of diverse attributes across the world While celebrating longer life and more financial security in later life than ever before we need to challenge how these aspirations can be sustained through our own behavioral responses and through public policy institutional reforms and innovations The challenge is to identify recommend and promote strategies and interventions that stimulate and sustain the activity independence and health of people of all ages especially older adults and in the process promote the well being and quality of life of people and make public welfare systems more sustainable      Old Age Income Assurance: Abstracts of the papers , 1968      Retirement Income of the Aging United States.
