Aging In Alberta Rhetoric Reality:

Aging in Alberta Herbert C. Northcott,1996-08-01 Foisted upon the Government? Edgar-André

Montigny,1997-07-01 While government officials in the 1890s claimed that forcing families to take responsibility for caring for the aged was in the interest of the elderly Edgar Andr Montigny reveals that government policy had more to with saving money than a desire to serve the aged He provides a harsh critique of Ontario government policies toward the elderly and their families at the end of the nineteenth century and highlights similarities between what happened in the 1890s and current policy reforms in the area of long term care Montigny argues that government played a central role in determining how society viewed the elderly and family obligations to them Using census data municipal records and institutional case files he demonstrates that the government created and promoted an image of the aged population that bore little resemblance to reality and manipulated the concept of family obligations to justify policies to reduce social welfare costs The effect of these policies passed in the name of helping the elderly and their families was almost universally negative By dispelling the myths that continue to influence public policy concerning the aged Montigny provides a useful warning of the negative consequences of policies that are enacted to cut costs rather than to serve the population they are supposed to help

Flirting with Disaster Saundra K. Schneider,1995 Flirting with Disaster is the first thorough examination of government successes and failures in responding to natural disaster situations The author contrasts the bureaucratic principles that dominate governmental activity with the disruptive effects of disaster and the forms of human behavior that emerge during disaster situations By comparing case studies of Hurricane Hugo Hurricane Andrew the Loma Prieta earthquake and the 1990 floods in South Carolina the author is able to identify the factors that contribute to effective response to disasters and the conditions under which relatively minor crises may lead to system breakdown The book looks at an extremely important but previously unexamined area of public administration and public policy presents a general theory of governmental performance in natural disaster situations identifies factors contributing to government success or failure in coping with disasters offers fresh insights into how the government can improve its response in disaster situations and integrates insights from emergency management studies agenda building research and the study of collective behavior

The Welfare State in Canada Raymond Benjamin Blake,Penny Bryden,J. Frank Strain,1997 The Politics of Problem Definition David A. Rochefort,Roger W. Cobb,1994 At the nexus of politics and policy development lies persistent conflict over where problems come from what they signify and based on the answers to those questions what kinds of solutions should be sought Policy researchers call this process problem definition Written for both scholars and students this book explains how and why social issues come to be defined in different ways how these definitions are expressed in the world of politics and what consequences these definitions have for government action and agenda setting dynamics The authors demonstrate in two theoretical chapters and seven provocative case studies how problem definition affects policymaking for high profile social issues like AIDS drugs and sexual harassment as well as for problems like traffic congestion plant closings agricultural tax benefits and air transportation By examining the way social problems are framed for political discussion the authors illuminate the unique impact of beliefs values ideas and language on the public policymaking process and its outcomes In so doing they establish a common vocabulary for the study of problem definition review and critique the insights of existing work on the topic and identify directions for future research

Aging in Ontario Wendy Lynn Maurier, Herbert C. Northcott, 2000 Geographically Ontario is the largest province in Canada with a seniors population exceeding 1.3 million persons These seniors are diverse in terms of age gender ethnicity socio economic status geographical location and health The authors examine the effects of this diversity on the aging experience and further explore the health and human service needs of these diverse groups In addition policy implications and challenges facing health and human service providers are also addressed The book concludes with an overview of the availability and accessibility of services provided for Ontario seniors and evaluation of the relevance of each service or program and suggestions for prospective programs intended for the diverse population of older persons living in Ontario

Dealing with Disaster Sandra K. Schneider, 2014-12-18 Now updated with examples through 2010 this classic study examines the disruptive effects of disasters on patterns of human behavior and the operations of government and the conditions under which even relatively minor crises can lead to system breakdown

Black Women, Cultural Images and Social Policy Julia S. Jordan-Zachery, 2009-01-13 Black Women Cultural Images and Social Policy offers a critical analysis of the policy making process Jordan Zachery demonstrates how social meanings surrounding the discourses on crime welfare and family policies produce and reproduce discursive practices that maintain gender and racial hierarchies Using critical discourse analysis CDA she analyzes the values and ideologies ensconced in the various images of black womanhood and their impact on policy formation This book provides exceptional insight into the racing gendering process of policy making to show how relations of power and forms of inequality are discursively constructed and impact the lives of African American women
