Academic Paper from the year 2020 in the subject Economics Economic Cycle and Growth language English abstract Those of us who preach the gospel of agriculture with evangelical zeal find the text compelling and convincing We are regularly possessed by the spirit only to look around and see out colleagues in other sectors in country management or even our senior management doubting yawning or subtly edging towards the door We face the implicit query If agriculture can do such great things why have they not yet happened The past decade has been one of agro pessimism The promises that agricultural development seem to hold did not materialise This pessimism seemed to coincide with pessimism about Sub Saharan Africa Especially for Sub Saharan Africa the hope was that economic development would be brought about by agricultural development After the success of the green revolution in Asia the hope was that a similar agricultural miracle would transform African economies But this hope never materialised agricultural productivity did not increase much in SSA and worse the negative effects of the green revolution in Asia became more apparent such as pesticide overuse and subsequent pollution Also in Asia the yield increases tapered off The sceptics put forward several arguments why agriculture is no longer an engine of growth For instance the liberalisation of the 1990s and greater openness to trade has lead to a reduction in the economic potential of the rural sector cheap imported Chinese plastic buckets out compete the locally produced pottery On the other hand it does mean cheaper imported supplies With rapid global technical change and increasingly integrated markets prices fall faster than yields rise So rural incomes fall despite increased productivity if they are net producers The integration of rural with urban areas means that healthy young people move out of agriculture head to town leaving behind the old the sick and the dependent It is often also the men who move to urban areas leaving women in charge of the farm This has resulted in the increased sophistication of agricultural markets and value chains which excludes traditional smallholders who are poorly equipped to meet the demanding product specifications and timeliness of delivery required by expanding supermarkets The natural resource base on which agriculture depends is poor and deteriorating
